PERINI BABY DROWNED

Girl's Body Recovered

Coast Guard Petty Officer Leo Kendrick lifts the tiny body of drowned Nancy Perini, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perini, from boat after the child was recovered by Bourne firemen in shallow water some 35 feet from shore in front of the Perini summer home on Megansett Beach. Officials said the youngster apparently wandered alone into the water, trying to reach one of the boats tied up off shore.

Writ for Hughes Personal Papers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Howard Hughes agreed today to make available to the Senate war investigating committee his private papers which Chairman Ferguson (R.) of Michigan, had ordered seized under subpoena. The plane builder, however, yielded only after a bitter session with Ferguson whose committee is investigating $40,000,000 in war-plane contracts awarded Hughes. Hughes had steadfastly insisted he would turn over only such papers as his attorney advised should be surrendered. Ferguson then issued the subpoena for the papers.

Superior Court Post For Cahill

Former Lt. Gov. Horace Cahill of Braintree will be appointed to the Superior Court bench shortly to succeed Judge Harold P. Williams, the Boston American learned from an authoritative source today.

Judge Williams is being elevated to the Supreme Court bench to fill a vacancy caused by the recent retirement of Chief Justice Fred T. Field. Justice Stanley Qua was sworn in as new chief justice of the high court Wednesday.

It also was learned at the State House that Gov. Bradford shortly will have two more Superior Court vacancies to fill. Two of its judges have already signified their intention of retiring before start of the fall term.

Judges William A. Burns and Edward T. Broadhurst have informed close associates of the Governor they intend to submit their resignations within a few weeks.

Judge Burns has reached the voluntary retirement age of 70 and Judge Broadhurst is approaching it. Both are ranking members of the state judiciary. During the absence of Chief Justice John P. Higgins in Japan, where he served on the war trials court, Judge Burns filled in as acting chief justice of the superior court.

Another high state political post also is expected to be vacated soon. Reports at the State House said Francis J. W. Harrington, recently reappointed State insurance commissioner, plans to accept a lucrative and responsible insurance post in Washington, D. C., and is making plans to submit his resignation around Labor Day.

Brewster 'Not Proud' Of Air Hostess Charge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Sen. Brewster (R.) of Maine said today he regrets making a press statement that an airline hostess was afraid of Hughes.

"I am not proud of my comment on that affair," the Maine senator told a news conference. Brewster made the original statement ten days ago after Hughes, multi-millionaire plane builder, had asserted that Brewster accepted $1400 worth of free air transportation from him. Brewster is chairman of the Senate war investigating committee which is looking into $40,000,000 worth of plane contracts awarded to Hughes and Henry J. Kaiser.

A sudden trace last night ended a side inquiry into charges by Hughes that Brewster offered to call off the contract investigation if Hughes would merge transworld airlines, which he largely controls, with Pan American Airways. Brewster said he called today's session on Page 14, Column 3.

As Hughes strode into the committee room in shirt sleeves, carrying his coat over his arm, for the beginning of the afternoon session of testimony, both committee officials and Hughes' attorneys said they had been unable to locate Johnny Meyer. Meyer, pudgy free-spending publicity man for Hughes, failed to appear at the hearing today and Ferguson issued a subpoena for him.

As Hughes walked into the room, accompanied by his lawyer, Thomas Slack, there was a burst of applause from the spectators. "We'll have quiet in the room, cried Ferguson, thumping the table. Slack told a reporter the agreement on the papers was this: William P. Rogers, committee counsel, will go over Hughes' private papers with Noah Dietrich, head of the Hughes Tool Co., and any the committee wants will be made available.

Slack said he has "no idea" where Meyer is. The latter was released from subpoena last night, when the previous subpoena expired and Ferguson said he had promised to be on hand today.

When Meyer failed to appear a new subpoena was issued for him.

The issuance of the subpoena for Hughes' papers capped an angry row.

Shouting that "we're not going to argue with you," Ferguson instructed committee aides to issue a subpoena to seize Hughes' papers, supposed to be in custody of one of the Hollywood millionaire's auditors in a hotel room.

Noah Dietrich, who heads Hughes' Tool Co., told the committee that, although he had been served with a subpoena to produce the documents, he legally does not have possession of them because they comprise Hughes' personal papers.

"Do you have these papers?" Ferguson demanded of Hughes. "I don't have them on my

Speed Attlee Crisis Rule; 'Like Hitler' to Churchill

LONDON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Britain's Socialist-dominated House of Commons approved today the government's sweeping "crisis powers" bill, described by Winston Churchill as "a blank check for totalitarian government." The House gave the bill a second reading—approving it in principle—without a record vote. The government hoped to push the measure through all remaining parliamentary stages before the Commons' scheduled adjournment next Wednesday.

An amendment to reject the measure was defeated 251 to 148. The Socialist government says the bill is necessary for effective dealing with the British economic crisis. It would empower the government to tell men and women where they must work and to take over the management of firms considered to be operating inefficiently.

Home Secretary Chuter Ede, backing the bill, said:

"We believe that this is a crisis likely to move forward with such rapidity that we should have power to deal drastically and swiftly with awkward situations that may arise." Churchill snapped: "Hitler said that."

Launching an all-out Conservative attack on Prime Minister Attlee's Spartan plans for meeting the economic squeeze—while Labor spokesmen asserted were "appropriate and necessary"—Churchill declared:

"The government's proposals will mean the abrogation of Parliament and of all our long-cherished rights."

Churchill maintained that the labor and industry controls asked by the government would destroy British freedom, and added:

"These powers are the negation of British freedom and way of living in time of peace."

Swinging from an attack on the government-requested legislation to one on the government itself, the wartime prime minister asserted:

"The main cause of at least half our difficulties has arisen from the partisan policies and administrative incompetence of the Attlee regime."

"Life under the Socialist government is worse, far worse, for the country than it ever was under the full blast and severity of war," Churchill continued.

"Except for bloodshed, all the evils of war—and worse—are going on in our country today. Do you deny that?"

DEM CONCLUDE ON COAST? LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8 (INS)—Walter Winchell, columnist, said today the 1948 Democratic national convention very probably would be held in San Francisco.

Bill Lifting Installment Curbs Nov. 1 Signed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—President Truman today signed legislation killing all controls on installment buying Nov. 1, 1947. The President said he regretted that Congress did not follow the recommendation of the Federal Reserve Board and of the Council of Economic Advisers "by enacting legislation to provide for continuing as long as necessary regulation of consumer credit as a means of helping to promote economic stability."

Mr. Truman had asked for specific peacetime authority to regulate the American institution known as the "easy payment plan," as a bulwark against inflationary tendencies. But Congress, instead, sent him a bill intended to force an end to the credit curbs in three months.

Mr. Truman observed that continuation of present controls for the next three months has been "permitted and implied by the Congress," and he added that "this is preferable to immediate abandonment of these restraints."

"For that reason," the President continued, "I have signed the joint resolution."

Existing controls, which continue until Nov. 1, require one-third down payment, with installments running no longer than 15 months, on automobiles, stoves, mechanical dish washers, ironers, refrigerators, washing machines, radios and some other goods.

A 20 per cent down payment, with installments limited to 15 months, is required for furniture and rugs.

Under the new legislation, the President could restore the controls after Nov. 1, in the event he declared a new national emergency or in time of war.

Court Won't Hurry New Car For Woman Waiting 18 Mos.

A socialite Beacon Hill widow today failed to obtain a temporary restraining order to prevent the Allen Buick Co., Brookline, from disposing of any more cars until they deliver a supermodel to her.

Superior Judge Vincent Brogna denied the petition of Mrs. Beatrice Goodwin, Pinckney st., Back Bay, and ordered pleadings completed within a week for trial. Her counsel, Atty. Francis Farrell, said she had placed a $25 deposit for a car in January, 1946, and had been told a year later she was next on the list. Delivery has not yet been made, he said.

Atty. Louis Lobell, Brighton, Republican House leader and counsel for the car company, said records revealed Mrs. Goodwin had obtained a car last January from a Norwood company. Said he:

"I don't think this woman should have two cars in these times. There are many people who need it more than she does." Farrell, however, told the court the second car was intended for the widow's son, a Navy lieutenant.

Prior to making his ruling, Judge Brogna said cryptically:

"A hardship that a petitioner suffers is one of the elements the court should take into consideration on the question of issuing a temporary restraining order."

Perini Baby Found Drowned Near Home

FALMOUTH, Aug. 8.—The body of Nancy Perini, 4, niece of Lou Perini, millionaire contractor and part owner of the Boston Braves baseball club, was recovered by police today in full view of relatives watching dragging operations from the porch of the family summer home.

ALL-NIGHT VIGIL—Joseph (left) and Lou's Perini (right), uncles of drowned Nancy Perini, 4, who kept all-night vigil while police and firemen searched for the little girl, were joined by Dist. Atty. Frank E. Smith and State Police Lt. John Dempsey.

Crash Wrecks Tobin Auto In Scituate, Driver Vanishes

Former Gov. Maurice J. Tobin's automobile was wrecked at Mann Hill, Scituate, early today, but it could not be learned whether he was in the car or whether anyone had been injured.

The accident occurred on Hathaway rd., about 300 yards from Mann Hill rd. and a mile and a half from the Tobin summer home in Third ave., Scituate.

The car apparently had failed to negotiate a sharp turn in the highway. It had cut across the road and plowed along for some 100 feet off the shoulder before turning smack into a wild cherry tree.

Nearby residents saw a man walk away from the wrecked car but could not identify him. Police were notified and Patrolman John Chessa investigated. He reported the car was a Lincoln sedan bearing the "101" registration plate issued to the former governor. He said the front of the car was stove in and the steering wheel jammed against the back of the front seat. The auto was presented to the former governor by a group of friends when he left office last January.

The former governor was not at his summer place. His daughter said he had left for Boston this morning and that he was "scratched up."

At the Tobin's Jamaica Plain home, Mrs. Tobin said she had not heard of any accident.

She said her husband was coming to Boston today on business and that she planned to join him and return to Scituate late today. She had come to Boston yesterday and remained overnight in Jamaica Plain, she said.

Police Chief Michael E. Stewart, of Scituate, said that all he knew about the case was that the car had been wrecked.

Police Chief Harry Baker said the child apparently wandered alone from the yard of her home into the water and waded to her death while trying to reach one of the boats tied up off shore. She was wearing a tiny bathing cap.

Until the body was found, Nancy's father had clung to a belief that she might have wandered into dense woods in the rear of the estate. Police, guardsmen and volunteers were preparing to search the woods when the body was recovered.

Nancy was the youngest of four children, two brothers, Charles, 10, Bartholomew, 7, and a sister, Audrey, 5. The family has been summing here since 1942.

ALL-NIGHT VIGIL

The beach in front of the Perini estate had gained a reputation as "the safest beach on Cape Cod."

Joining in the all-night vigil that ended so tragically just after dawn were the victim's two uncles, Joseph and Lou. The latter is president of the Boston Braves Baseball team.

The three brothers do business as B. Perini and Sons and have amassed considerable wealth as well as a national reputation as builders. They are presently engaged in the enlargement of Logan Airport.

About 5 p. m. yesterday, Nancy and her sister Audrey, 5, were escorted home from the beach by Miss Mary McKenna, 19, of LaGrange st., West Roxbury, whose summer home is next door to the Perini estate.

Nancy was left inside the fenced-in part of the Perini home while her older sister was taken upstairs for treatment of a minor cut on the foot.

Pair in Lure Killing Termed Bigamists

With the disclosure that both Joseph L. Hardy, Jr., 24, of Kittery, Me., and Lois Hardy, 22, of Portsmouth, N. H., had previous marriages in effect when they went through a wedding ceremony in Las Vegas, Nev., authorities inclined today to the belief that the bigamous union was a desperate scheme to avoid a murder trial.

The couple, married only eight days, are now in Truckee, Cal., jail awaiting trial in the love-trap slaying nine days ago of James W. McLain, 48, of Burbank, Cal., in a lonely road in Hirschdale, Cal.

They admitted to police that McLain was shot by Hardy as he lay in the arms of Lois in a premeditated plot to get rid of him and take his auto and cash. McLain, on vacation, had given the hitch-hiking couple a ride and paid for their lodgings.

CANNOT TESTIFY

The morning after the murder, the pair were married at 7:30 a. m. by a justice of the peace in Las Vegas.

Sheriff's deputies who seized them an hour after the ceremony voiced suspicions the couple decided to marry so that, in event of capture and trial in the McLain murder, husband could not testify against wife and vice versa.

This the couple denied at the time, although freely admitting other details of the crime.

It was learned that Lois had at least one previous marriage, to a young man also from Maine, whom she met early in 1946 shortly after she reached New England after travels through the South and Midwest.

An examination of records showed that Lois Hunt married Arthur Corliss, 35, a Berwick farmer, on Mar. 22, 1946, after a brief courtship. Corliss was working at the Portsmouth Navy yard at the time, and Lois was a waitress in Somersworth, N. H.

They were married in Berwick by the Rev. H. Graham, pastor of the Methodist Church there and after the wedding, set up housekeeping in Berwick.

LEFT AFTER MONTH

Lois lived with Corliss for about a month, and then left him. According to Corliss, who filed suit for divorce on April 1, 1947, Lois was guilty of infidelities within 30 days of their marriage.

His petition sets forth that as a result of Lois' friendship with other men and her general conduct, she caused him "great conscious suffering and nervousness."

The divorce petition is scheduled to be heard in probate court at Alfred, Me., next month.

Hardy, himself, married Virginia Baptiste of New York, a WAC still in service, in 1946, and as far as she knows, she is still married to him.

The couple, whose confession of their brutal killing of a man who had befriended them was induced by a Las Vegas prison Gospel service, seemed indifferent to the fact that they face death.

High State, City Officials Clash on Bookie Tax Edict

Clashes between high state and city officials enlivened as well as confused the current investigation into activities of bookies today.

Gov. Bradford declared: "Massachusetts does not and will not countenance any criminal activity of any sort."

His tax commissioner, Henry F. Long, related fresh details of what he said was his campaign to force the Big Four bookmakers in Holyoke to pay a state tax on gambling income of some $2,000,000 a year.

Disregarding the Governor's stand on illegal gambling, Long publicly warned the four Holyoke men that "if they don't swing into line and pay their 3 per cent state tax we will really get after them."

The Governor was asked for his views on Long's highly publicized drive against the bet-takers' pocketbooks, but he declined to comment.

NO "BIG" OPERATORS

Meanwhile, as estimates on the volume of illegal gambling in the Bay State were announced as ranging between $17,000,000 and $85,000,000 a year, Police Comm. Sullivan stated there are no longer any big operators in the Boston gambling setup.

The commissioner also termed an exaggeration an estimate that there are about 1000 men making book in the city.

Yet in Springfield J. Paul Canty, chief investigator of the State income tax department, declared his men have discovered 1350 bookies at work in the Greater Springfield area, a figure which applied proportionately to Boston would set the bookie total here far over the 1000 mark.

These bookies who handle bets on the figures announced daily for the national treasury balance nearly had their lottery upset when a man tried to alter the official figures to suit his bet.

TRIES NUMBERS HOAX

He telephoned the Boston Record-American office, posing as a reporter on the Associated Press, and gave a "corrected" figure to replace the one already sent out by teletype from Washington, which he said was in error. A quick telephone call to the Associated Press exposed the

CANCER-SIGNAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—A possible new aid in diagnosing certain kinds of cancer—by making malignant tissue give off a vivid yellow light—is described today in the technical journal Science.

Dr. George E. Moore of the University of Minnesota says he has used a dye called sodium fluorescein—which glows when exposed to ultraviolet light—as an agent in differentiating between normal and malignant tissue.

scHEME, almost a duplicate of the stunt pulled in Washington by a phony "treasury official" who also tried to change the figures in a telephone call.

Meanwhile, Canty announced in Springfield that during his tour of the Connecticut Valley he is launching a drive to force Bay State winners of raffles or lotteries to pay a state tax on their prizes, ranging from a bottle of Scotch to an automobile.

Canty, who with J. J. Maguire was working in the Springfield area, said that religious, fraternal and veterans' organizations have been furnishing him with full cooperation in connection with prize winners in lotteries they have conducted.

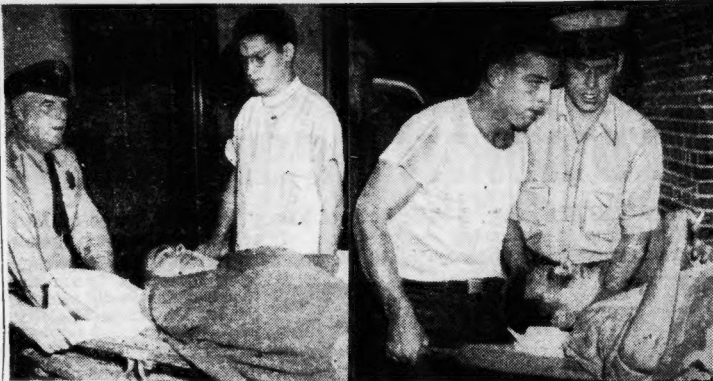

As a result, literally thousands of persons who had no idea they had stepped over the legal line in any way, will learn to their dismay they have evaded income tax returns and must either pay up or take the consequences. All winnings of any kind are taxable and must be declared, he pointed out.

Canty, who went to Springfield from Holyoke and Chicopee, disclosed that during the day 150 persons had visited him to furnish names and addresses of prize winners in lotteries conducted by various organizations.

Canty said he also had the names of persons who had won Treasury balance pools, the prizes ranging up to $7500.

"It's about my husband's talking in his sleep. I don't know whether to see a doctor—or a lawyer!"

YOUTHS INJURED IN FALL—Police and firemen carry Thomas Connolly, 21, of Tremont st. (at left), and Joseph McLeod, 22, of Derby pl., both of Roxbury, into the City Hospital after they fell 25 feet to the ground when the guard rail of a sloping on which they were working gave way behind a building at Washington and Dudley sts. Youths were repairing a brick wall when the accident occurred. X-rays were taken to determine the extent of their hurts.

Dentist Scores Lack Of Preventive Care

Members of the American Dental Ass'n were shocked out of their professional complacency today when one of their number charged dentistry was "devoting too much of its time to teaching and practicing better methods of extracting teeth and making artificial dentures and too little of its time teaching and practicing preventive measures."

The charge was leveled by Dr. Maurice E. Peters of Boston as the eighty-eighth annual convention of the association drew to a close with the election of officers and 109 "table clinics" demonstrating dental techniques.

Implying a lack of ethics on the part of many of his conferees, Dr. Peters said flatly: "Good dentists should treat dental diseases at least two years before a toothache has occurred. The dental profession already has the knowledge and the ability to prevent much dental disease and to control it so that patients should be able to go through life, from the cradle to the grave, with their own teeth and not be subjected to dentures."

"Why should people go to dentists for dental care and end up with artificial teeth?" Dr. Peters titled his paper "Controlled Dentistry, or Your Own Teeth from the Cradle to the Grave."

His theme, he said, was saving teeth, "apparently not a very popular habit in the profession, if the records I read and the patients I see tell the story truthfully."

"Just because our profession started as a 'pull-em-out' and 'put-em-back' profession," he went on, "must we always remain such? We seem to have developed to the stage where the exodontist takes them out and the prosthodontist puts them back, not only decoratively, but quite efficiently and expensively. But is that dentistry?"

Dr. Peters charged dental schools with spending more time teaching extractions and surgery than preventive and corrective dentistry.

"Dental societies seem to devote more of their program to subjects on locking the stable door after the horse is stolen than on saving the horse. Even the program for this meeting seems so."

A large number of dental specialists would be eliminated, he stated, if dentistry were doing its job—saving teeth. But they will remain in business, he said, as long as there is more money to be made in artificial dentures than in preventive dentistry.

Dr. H. B. Washburn, St. Paul, was installed as president of the association for the next year. He will then be supplanted by Dr. Clyde E. Minges, Rocky Mount, N. C., who was named president-elect.

Dr. Philip Adams, Boston, who acted as general chairman of the convention, was elected first vice-president by acclamation. Drs. Fred A. Richmond, Kansas City, and A. M. Smith, Jr., Tampa, Fla., were named second and third vice-presidents. Dr. Roscoe H. Volland, Iowa City, was re-elected treasurer.

Mabel McCarthy, Bridgeport, Ct., was installed as president of the American Dental Hygienists' Ass'n. She will be superseded next year by Frances A. Stoll, New York, designated president-elect.

Temporary Mayor John B. Hynes announced today he had approved the application of the Sutcliffe Transportation Co., to operate limousine service between Logan Airport and the North and South Stations.

The company will be permitted to operate 12 limousines with stops at the two stations and the Haymarket sq. bus terminal for a 75-cent fare, the mayor said.

Odom Flashes Out of Cairo For India

CAIRO, Aug. 8 (AP)—Pilot William P. Odom, a third of the way along on his effort to set a new solo record around the world, left Cairo today at 6:30 p. m. (12:39 p. m., Boston time) for Karachi, India.

The former British ferry command airman, now living in Roslyn, N. Y., was only 22 hours 46 minutes out of Chicago, his starting point, as he headed down the 2200-mile leg to Karachi. He was trying to cut to 90 hours or less the 186-hour record for a solo flight around the world set by Wiley Post in 1933.

Odom spent only 55 minutes in Cairo refueling. He said he had averaged about 350 miles an hour on the leg from France in perfect weather. C-nder, Nfld., was his only stop before he hit Paris.

Girl, 3, Scalp Cut, Found Wandering

A three-year-old girl, bleeding from a cut in her scalp and obviously lost, was found crying in Maywood st., Roxbury, today. Mary Grogan, of Blue Hill ave., Roxbury, took the child to the district health unit nearby where after first aid treatment she was sent to City Hospital.

Doctors said the girl apparently had been cut by glass, but they were unable to explain how. Her injury was not serious. Police immediately began a search for the girl's parents. The youngster, however, didn't remember her name or address and couldn't give police much help.

Wife of Famed Prosecutor Kills His Drunken Dad

HOT SPRING, Ark., Aug. 8 (AP)—Haggard and unshaven, Prosecuting Atty. Sidney McMath declared today his pretty 26-year-old wife shot and killed his father last night while hysterical with fright as a result of the elder McMath's drunken abuse.

The former Marine hero issued a prepared statement telling how his wife, Anne, grabbed his .45-caliber service automatic and fired wildly at Hal P. McMath, 57, when he approached her cursing and with his fist clinched.

Young McMath, attired in rumpled trousers and shirt he was wearing on a picnic he was attending when the shooting took place at the couple's swank home near here, added he would request a special grand jury session and a special prosecutor to go into the case.

Later Circuit Judge Clyde H. Brown said he had tentatively scheduled a special session for next Thursday. Previous court commitments made it impossible to hold it before then. He said he was not ready to announce who the special prosecutor would be.

McMath, a former Marine colonel, winner of the Navy Cross and within the last 18 months a new and powerful factor in Arkansas politics, was a law partner of Judge Brown when the two were in private practice.

The prosecutor's statement was the first official pronouncement on the slaying since it was reported by Mrs. McMath at exactly 7 p. m. yesterday.

McMath's account stated in part: "This is a tragic occurrence. I grieve for my father, my mother, my children and my wife."

"My father has been running my farm, coming to the farm in the morning and returning to his home in Hot Springs in the evening. For years he has been an excessively heavy drinker. When he drank, like many men, he underwent a change in character. Lately he has been drinking more and more. Drinking caused him to become irrational, abusive and violent."

"Monday when I was in court in Mr. Ida my wife, Anne, had to call the sheriff's office after he had maltreated and badly bruised her.

"I arrived at the same time the sheriff's deputies did. Anne was badly shaken and frightened when I got to her. I at once took my father in hand and as soon as he was able we discussed the situation. He agreed with me that he needed medical treatment. Arrangements for proper care and hospitalization for him were to be completed this week."

"Yesterday he started drinking again after I had left town. He returned to our home in my absence. He started mistreating one of our horses. Anne pleaded with him to stop. He became enraged and violent and threatened to kill the horse. He also threatened her. She ran into the house to get away from him. He followed her, threatening and cursing and with his fist clinched. She picked up my .45 automatic, which I keep in my desk, with the idea of frightening him away."

"He started into the house after her. Anne knew he was not himself. She became hysterical with fright and began firing. Anne had never fired a weapon before in her life. I know she did not intend to kill my father, because she loved him as we all did. She would not have intentionally killed even to save her own life."

Mrs. McMath is the former Anne Phillips of Slate Springs, Miss. She is McMath's second wife. His first wife died while he was in the Marine Corps and later after his return from the Pacific, he met Miss Phillips in Washington, where he was stationed and she was employed.

Mr. and Mrs. McMath have an 18-months-old son. He also has a 5-year-old son by his first wife. The baby and a maid were in the house when the shooting occurred.

MRS. DOLLY COX, 24; LOUIS KOTONIS, 16
Would-Be Elopers Held in Detroit After Plans Fail

Divorcee Balked in Plan to Wed Boy, 16

DETROIT, Aug. 8 (AP)—A 24-year-old divorced mother and the high school boy she came to Detroit to marry were ready today to be returned to Ohio—their project a failure.

But red-haired Mrs. Dolly Cox, who has waived extradition to Ohio where she is charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, insisted she was determined to become the wife of 16-year-old Louis Kotonis "even if I have to wait until he's 21."

Dolly said at the women's police division lockup, where she was taken after being arrested with Louis late Wednesday at the home of her relatives: "He's my man. I love him and I am going to have him, one way or another."

The youth, who told police he met Mrs. Cox in Dayton, said he was hoping to go to Tennessee or Kentucky with her where they "wouldn't have any trouble getting married."

Louis was held in juvenile detention house with no charge placed against him. The pair's return to Dayton was delayed until a court waiver could be signed today.

The divorcee told officers she became acquainted with Louis soon after she moved to Dayton from Greenville, Tenn., where her three-year-old daughter now lives with Mrs. Cox' former husband.

She added that she and the youth, a high school freshman, came here by bus Wednesday because family objections stood in the way of their marriage in Dayton.

Public Hearing 5 Due Shortly On Blue Cross

A public hearing will be held shortly on the petition of the Blue Cross that it pay member hospitals not more than $9 per day for its members rather than all hospitalizations costs. It was announced by Francis Harrington, state insurance commissioner.

The reduction in the amount paid hospitals for services is sought, R. F. Cahalane executive director of Blue Cross said, because hospital costs have increased more than was anticipated, and more Blue Cross members are going to hospitals.

The proposed change is opposed by William V. Ward, president of the Mass. State Council, an organization of state employees.

In a letter to Commr. Harrington demanding a public hearing, Ward said "certain hospitals charge patients fees which are not exacted from non-Blue Cross patients. He said he feared all hospitals will make their minimum charge $12 a day if the $9 rate sought by the Blue Cross is allowed."

Ward said he promised state employee members of the Blue Cross full legal support to enforce their contract for 100 per cent payment of hospital bills.

Blue Cross officials denied their subscribers were a public hearing, declaring that a careful check is kept on all hospitals, and contracts refused to hospitals which charge more than they should.

Paying all hospital costs, as the Blue Cross agreed to do in their latest policy, has cost them $2,000,000 paid out of the $3,000,000 reserves, Cahalane said.

Marblehead Girl 'Marsha Jordan'

Kay Lundegren of Marblehead won the title "Marsha Jordan" at the Back-to-School Fashion Show held in Jordan Marsh's Fashion Center yesterday.

One of 10 finalists, modeling teen-age clothes, Miss Lundegren will receive a complete fall wardrobe, a springtime trip to Washington and New York, and will serve for a year, each Saturday, as shopping consultant in Jordan's Teen-Age Shop.

Runners-up, chosen from 900 entries, were Judith Ann Chad-dock of Quincy, and Olga Jenkins of Dorchester. Others modeling in the show were Joan Cerwonka of Medford, Nancy Lee Hamilton of Brookline, Janet Tenney of Arlington, Ann Connors of Beverly, Joan Craig of Revere, Connie Read of Boston and Joan Kerwin of Cambridge.

CONTRACTS WIN COURT APPROVAL—Smiling prettily at you are Bette Arlen (top), 18-year-old native of Milwaukee, and Marilyn Mercer, 19, of Asheville, N. C., after superior court in Los Angeles approved their film contracts. Bette was discovered in a fashion models' group, while talent scouts found Marilyn working as a receptionist in the studio commissary.

60 Rings Roll Out of Man's Pocket at Hospital

James Jones, 39, of Massachusetts ave., South End, was in a predicament with police when 60 rings rolled out of his pockets at City Hospital, where he was taken after a collapse.

Jones said he had found the rings in a carton on a rubbish pile. His story was confirmed by the janitor of a downtown jewelry store, who said he had accidentally thrown out $425 worth of rings and bracelets.

Seeks Third Trial In Wife-Slaying

LILLINGTON, N. C., Aug. 8 (AP)—Charlie Phillips, 31, twice convicted of murdering his wife, confidently awaited today the outcome of legal proceedings designed to win him a third trial.

It took a jury only 57 minutes last night to find the tenant farmer guilty of killing his wife, Etta Mae, 28, with a borrowed pistol as they ate Sunday dinner a year ago.

Judge John J. Burney sentenced him to die in the state's gas chamber Sept. 19. Defense Atty. Neill McK. Salmon immediately announced he would file an appeal.

Phillips previously had been convicted of first degree murder in a trial last September, and granted a reprieve, then a new trial.

Rites Set for 4 Dead in Everett Plane Crash

Funeral arrangements for the four socially prominent victims of the airplane crash in Everett were announced today as federal and state investigators announced they would complete a probe of the tragedy within four days.

Triple funeral services will be held tomorrow at 11 a. m. in Christ Episcopal Church, Hamilton, for Thomas F. Mandell, 45, of Dodge st., Beverly, and his daughters, Ann, 22, and Harriet, 19, both of Commonwealth ave., Back Bay.

Rites will also be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at First Emmanuel Church, Dublin, N. H., for John Nelson Forland Fell, 52, of Ipswich.

Pell's death has not yet been disclosed to his wife, mother of a young daughter and expecting a second child shortly. She is the former Nancy Campbell Blagdon of New York city, where her family and Pell's are prominent socially.

She has been staying in Ipswich and her husband was stopping at the Myopia Hunt Club in Hamilton until he could purchase a home for his family. An aviator since he graduated from Harvard in 1936, he purchased an interest in North Atlantic Airways last April and moved here from New York.

The Long Night Mock Trial Gives Film Dramatic Sequel

The stirring screen drama "The Long Night," now showing at RKO Keith Memorial Theater here, will have an equally dramatic sequel when a mock trial, with the hero as defendant, is held at Symphony Hall Wednesday, Aug. 13, with a broadcast of the trial between 8 and 9 p. m. over the Yankee Network.

Both audience and radio listeners will serve as jury to decide the fate of the defendant, who at the rousing conclusion of the picture faces trial for first degree murder. Tickets for the trial will go on sale this week and all proceeds will be donated to the Children's Hospital Fund. The tickets will be priced from $3 to $1.

Guy Madison will play the colorful role of hero which Henry Fonda plays on the screen. Jacqueline White will carry on in the role of heroine, played in the picture by Barbara Bel Geddes, and Ann Dvorak will play the part she made so vivid on the screen.

Counsel for the defense will be Atty. Herbert Callahan, Boston's and the famed criminal lawyer, and the equally famed Judge Thomas J. Courtney of Chicago will be prosecutor. The name of the presiding judge will be announced later.

Those who see the film will all the more appreciate and understand the drama of the trial.

VA Hospital Program

2 Years Behind—Starr

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Louis E. Starr, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, declared the Veterans Administration's program for building new hospitals is "hopelessly adrift" and calls for immediate remedial action.

Starr said in a statement the VA hospital waiting list now has a backlog of 19,000 veterans and the program to give VA a total of 150,000 beds by 1949 is about two years behind schedule.

Former Kaiser's Widow Dies at 60

BERLIN, Aug. 8 (AP)—Princess Hermine von Schoenrich-Carolath, widow of Germany's last Kaiser, Wilhelm II, died yesterday at Frankfurt-am-Oder, in the Russian zone of Germany, the Soviet-controlled German news agency reported today. She was 60.

$1000 BIG CAT

Boston school children, who have contributed $3000 in pennies for the purchase of animals, will get their first dividend today when a tiger, bought for $1000 at a New York farm, arrives at Franklin Park zoo.

Temporary Mayor Hynes said the big cat was being vanned over the road and was expected by late afternoon.

Brewster

news conference to reply to questions put to him by Hughes on the stand yesterday which he did not get a chance to answer before the Brewster-Hughes phase of the case was closed.

Hughes had challenged Brewster to repeat under oath his statement that Harriet Applewick, a TWA hostess, had refused to travel in Hughes' plane because she did not dare be alone with him.

A reporter asked Brewster if, by saying he was not proud of his comment, he meant to withdraw it.

"I am regretting it," Brewster replied, adding that he hoped newsmen would not press him on the point.

In bringing up the subject, Brewster had said:

"I confess I was irritated and angry about Mr. Hughes' attacks."

He said he had mentioned the hostess matter "over the counsel of my advisors."

Hughes yesterday produced an affidavit in which Miss Applewick flatly denied that she ever had told Brewster she was afraid to travel alone with Hughes.

She called the Brewster statement "ridiculous."

Brewster said today he was "very sorry if I have embarrassed her in her occupation."

He added that he was sure she is "very competent" and that he did not want to cause her any trouble.

When reporters pressed Brewster as to whether he was withdrawing his statement about the hostess, he said he did not care to carry on the controversy.

ARTICLES CITED

Then he added that Sen. Brickner (R., of Ohio, heard "some, but not all" of the conversation he said he had with Miss Applewick.

Brewster said he asked to see reporters because it seemed to him "the public and the press is entitled to my comment" on questions put to him by Hughes which he did not get a chance to answer.

One query fired by Hughes was how Brewster could reconcile his statement that he knew nothing about a possible merger of TWA and Pan American, with articles Hughes read from the publication, Aviation News, which Hughes contended indicated Brewster did know about it.

Brewster said he thought he had made it clear when he was on the stand that he had heard talk about a merger and had mentioned it himself in a telephone conversation with Hughes last March.

On the stand, Brewster said he never had offered to call off the current investigation in exchange for a merger.

Hughes also challenged Brewster's statement that he (Brewster) never "lobbied" with Hughes to win the latter's support of a bill to set up a single American flag overseas airline.

Brewster said today he wanted to repeat that he had discussed the bill, of which he is one of the sponsors, with Hughes when the plane builder asked about it.

"But the term 'lobbied' is not calculated to be a polite term," Brewster said.

The Senator said Hughes "has made a great deal" about minor inaccuracies of Brewster and made an equal number himself.

Holding up a photograph of Hughes and a group of signators in front of a large airplane, Brewster said "Only one person was between me and Mr. Hughes in this, and it was Sen. (not President) Truman." This indicated it was taken before Mr. Truman's election as Vice President in 1944.

"Hughes said he had never spoken to Sen. Brewster before (last winter) but this photograph seems to dispute that," Brewster commented.

QUOTES ELLIOTT

Brewster said he "had never heard of the XF-11 plane in my life" which Hughes listed as "sponsored by Pan American Airways" but never investigated by Brewster committee, although contracted for at about the same time as the Hughes photo plane.

Brewster also questioned Hughes testimony about State and War Departments' actions to obtain airfields in South and Central America which Hughes said are to go to Pan American Airways after the war.

"The less said about that the better," Brewster said, adding that under the Senate restrictions applied to the investigating committee it has no authority to probe matters outside the United States.

Brewster said that Elliott Roosevelt had answered charges by Hughes and Hughes officials that the pending probe was "political" and "aimed at the Roosevelt name."

The Senator read Elliott Roosevelt's final testimony thanking the committee for its fairness.

"I think that explodes these charges," Brewster said. "I am profoundly appreciative of Gen. Roosevelt's statement to the committee about its treatment of him."

Brewster said he planned to leave Washington later today "to resume my interrupted vacation in Maine."

He said he had asked Atty. Gen. Tom Clark and the Justice Department "to make a complete and thorough investigation of all of Mr. Hughes' charges against me."

British Data Found In Hagana Files

JERUSALEM, Aug. 8 (AP)—Police today found dozens of intercepted government papers in a secret file of Hagana, Jewish underground group.

Two briefcases of documents were in the rear seat of a car stopped at a road block near Jerusalem Sunday night. The papers included government inter-office memoranda and such Hagana documents as letters between group leaders and notes on the Jewish reaction to government policies.

Police said that two Jews in the car had been arrested and later released on bail.

Smart Set Harding Bridal Set for Next Spring
By BETTY ALDEN
POST DEB HELEN B. HARDING, 3d, of Brookline, and her fiance, Francis Parkman, Jr., have an unusual reason for choosing next March to be married. Like every other bride Helen wants to walk down the aisle in a lovely gown of satin and rose point and with a bevy of bridesmaids, but in order to do so must wait till she is able to walk without crutches.
Seems she broke her leg in a skiing accident last winter and will be hobbling around on crutches for some time. Her fiance teaches at Brooks School and they've decided to be married next spring vacation.
Helen is looting this summer on account of her injury. That may sound luxurious to many working girls but it not a bit to Helen's liking for she has always been active and doing interesting things since she came out. During the war she had one of the most patriotic jobs of any girl outside the armed forces, driving a fork lift truck at the Army Base. Several summers she has tutored in private families.
MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM JEROME CROUL of Grosse Point Farms, Michigan, will have their baby daughter christened Sunday on their first wedding anniversary. The infant was born July 18 at Richardson House and will be named Winifred Merrill at christening services conducted by Rev. Leahy at the Sacred Heart Church, Manchester, where Mr. and Mrs. Croul were married a year ago Aug. 10.
Mrs. Croul is the former Winifred Palmer and was elected to the Junior League when she made her debut before the war. She is spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Palmer at their home, All Oaks, overlooking the ocean at Manchester-by-the-Sea. Her husband will be here until Monday and plans to return Labor Day weekend for 10 days.
They will have a small party at All Oaks after the christening.
NORTH SHORE SOCIETY is particularly interested in news of the marriage of Mrs. John H. Denison, Jr. (Fanny Moore) to John McLaughlin Case at Big Horn, Wyoming, this week. The bride is the widow of John H. Denison, Jr., archaeologist and anthropologist, who died in North Africa while serving in the American Field Service.
She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore of Convent, N. J., who have spent many summers at Rockmarge, the beautiful estate of his parents, Mrs. William H. Moore and the late Judge Moore, at Prides Crossing. As a debutante Fanny had many parties in the spacious coach house at Rockmarge. She is a sister of Mrs. Frederick Dearborn Jr., of Wrenham and Paul Moore Jr., who married Jenny McKean of Prides Crossing.
Mr. Case is the son of Mrs. Henry J. Case of Darien, Ct. He was in the class of 1923 at Harvard and a Lieutenant Colonel in the 13th Armored Division.
Every time a Wellesley housewife goes downtown for the groceries she is apt to meet face to face one of the galaxy of stage stars currently visiting the town. They are stars of the Wellesley Summer Theater five-week season, such as Richard Arlen who has been visiting the town a month, Bert Lyle, rehearsing for "Ah, Wilderness" next week, Buddy Ebsen and Joyce Van Patten, who is vacationing in Wellesley after starring at the theater in Alumnæ Hall.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—It's legal for the ladies to show their legs on Albany's tennis courts, but the men must hide theirs.

With the mercury hovering around 90, the Public Works Dept. leveled a "Wear pants or don't play" order at the men today, after a complaint the courts were "being turned into a nudist colony."

The complaint was one of several following the appearance of men players wearing abbreviated bathing trunks.

Nothing was said about the girls' attire.

Clocker's Love For Mother Told

Most important in the life of Dorchester's Bill Smith, known for years to Boston Evening American readers as "The Clocker," was the security of his mother.

From his very deathbed "Clocker Bill" tried to care for her—and in so doing he resorted to a horse race, the second love of his life.

Dan Parker tells the story of "Clocker Bill" and his devotion to his mother and racing in "The Clocker's Last Selection," which will be published in Sunday's American Weekly, magazine issued with all editions of the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Another American Weekly special for Sunday will be "Best Sellers vs. Matrimony," an illuminating article about successful women authors whose personal problems often surpass those of their fictional heroines.

A DANGEROUS PROPOSAL

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, AUG. 8, 1947

THE NATIONAL ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL of the Regular Veterans' Association has raised vigorous and exceptionally sound objections to the proposal by Senator McCarran of Nevada that Alaska be opened to settlement by European displaced persons.

The plight of hundreds of thousands of displaced persons in Europe is admittedly serious and indeed pathetic.

The problem of its alleviation is therefore of grave humanitarian concern.

But the primary concern of the American people with respect to Alaska, as the Veterans' Association reminds the country, is that of NATIONAL DEFENSE. That is a vital concern to which the government of the United States must give an undisputed PRIORITY.

Alaska is no longer to be safely regarded as an isolated region of vast undeveloped natural resources. It has suddenly become transformed—by the advancement of military science, particularly in aviation—into THE MOST VITAL STRATEGIC AREA IN THE WORLD.

Held impregably by the American defense establishments, Alaska can be made a most formidable protector of the United States.

But in the hands of an aggressive and powerful enemy, it would render the defense of the United States VIRTUALLY IMPOSSIBLE.

The blunt reality about Alaska in its present situation is that it is not impregably defended.

It is not a formidable barrier to invasion. It neither blocks nor very seriously obstructs the path of aerial invasion which any future enemy of the United States would certainly pursue across the top of the world.

National Commander William M. Floyd of the Regular Veterans' Association further clarifies the blunt reality about Alaska, in the matter of its present military weakness and its potentially fatal military impotency.

"Russia now has armed forces in Siberia that outnumber those we have in Alaska TWO HUNDRED TO ONE," he asserts.

With only fifty-six miles separating American and Russian territories in the Arctic, he warns, OUR PRESENT ALASKAN DEFENSES MUST BE JUDGED AGAINST THE STARK FACT THAT THEY "COULD NOT HOLD OFF A FULL-SCALE RUSSIAN INVASION FOR MORE THAN THREE HOURS."

Instead of admitting as many as four hundred thousand aliens of doubtful loyalty to Alaska, urges Mr. Floyd, our most concentrated efforts should be directed toward encouraging a heavy influx of AMERICAN-BORN PATRIOTS into the territory, "eager and ready to bear arms in defense of that territory."

It would not be a process of absorption and assimilation—but one of virtual abandonment of Alaska to an alien population—to admit nearly half a million displaced Europeans into an area now containing a scant ninety thousand Americans.

PEACE INSURANCE

THE MERCHANT MARINE is not just a carrier of goods, operated for the convenience of shippers and the profit of ship owners. It is a very vital part of the defense establishments of the United States.

When it becomes inadequate for the purposes of national defense, or is rendered obsolete by neglect, it becomes a point of national weakness, and in the event of war could very easily be a fatal weakness.

The United States has already entered two great wars under the handicap of such a weakness, and only succeeded in offsetting it by initiating tremendous shipbuilding programs for which it fortunately had sufficient time.

We should profit by past experience and not allow the already-alarming stagnation of our American maritime enterprise to continue and grow worse.

To do so is to gamble recklessly with national safety.

Last night we saw the stars arise.
But clouds soon dimmed the ether blue
And when we sought each other's eyes
Tears dimmed them, too!
We paced along our favorite walk,
But paced in silence broken hearted.
Of old we used to smile and talk,
Last night we parted.

SUBSCRIBERS continue to tell me the etiquette experts say a man should wear his wedding ring on his left hand. I know that's what the etiquette experts say. But is it a Supreme Court decision? Must all men be regimented by etiquette experts? Tradition says a ring worn on the right hand means authority, on the left hand it means subservience. Therefore, I say a man should wear his wedding ring on his right hand, regardless of what the etiquette experts say. This is the Five Star Final comment on the wedding ring argument.

PLEASE NOTE: Am asked how much tax the U. S. government takes from a $100,000 winning ticket in the Irish sweepstakes. The answer is more than half. For example, two Manhattan women, who between them had a ticket on the 1947 Grand National winner Caughoo, each paid the government a tax of $25,000 or a total of $50,000 out of their $100,000 winnings.

ASKING—Queries from clients, Q. Can you name three hit plays with all-male casts and three hit plays with all-women casts? A. No, sir, I can't. Can you. Only all-male cast play I can remember, that could be classed as "a hit," was "Journey's End." Only all-female cast play in the same category was "The Women."

Q. Was "Diamond Jim" Brady born on the East Side of Manhattan or the West Side? A. On the West side, where his father ran a saloon popular with longshoremen. Jim started his money earning career as a bellhop at the St. James Hotel, Broadway and 26th st. Q. What is the fare on the London, England, double deck buses? A. It depends upon how far you ride. The zone system is used. Off-hand I can't name the exact prices but, as I recall it, the fares run from the equivalent of three cents to a quarter. A good system. It is ridiculous that a man who rides a mile in the New York subway should pay the same fare as a man who rides 15 miles.

LAWYERS WIVES—Los Angeles has a Lawyers Wives Club. That must be quite an organization. For their next annual fund drive they should hire that all lawyers orchestra in Philadelphia to furnish the music. By the way, how about a Lawyers Husbands Club? It seems men married to lawyers should have much in common. They tell me that of all career women wives the lawyers are hardest for husbands to handle.

CHANGING NAMES—When a girl marries she is not legally compelled to take her husband's name. If her name is Shirley Gray and she marries a man named Rudolph Muckenuss, she can still call herself Shirley Gray if she so desires. How did your wife make out in her exchange of names? Is she satisfied? By the way, I see by the dispatches that a Tomahawk, Wis. girl named May June Gray has just become the bride of one Frank Welke. I think this bride should continue to use her unusual maiden name.

HOT GAME—Note quite a few football games scheduled in the East for early September. Whenever I hear of a football game to be played in September, it makes me shudder. I once played in a game in the early part of that month against Stevens Institute, Hoboken, N. J. The thermometer was hitting around 89 in the shade. We were playing in the sun. I lost 14 pounds that afternoon. Yes, sir, I weighed 188 before the game and 174 after it.

SOME CAT—One of the features of the daily newspapers I never miss is the classified ad section. I read it all. Very interesting. Under Lost and Found today I noted the following: "Lost—15-pound blue gray long haired Persian cat—$100 reward." That must be quite a cat.

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IT REALLY MAKES no difference whether Sen. Brewster got a free ride in Howard Hughes' airplane or whether in private conversation Brewster said this or that to Hughes. The issue is not personal. It is not between Brewster and Hughes. It is not over which one is a liar. If Sen. Brewster has betrayed his oath of office, he should be investigated by the Senate, as the law provides and as the senator proposed, offered to waive all immunities.

Sen. Brewster

Howard Hughes pulled a clever and ingenious publicity stunt when, under attack himself, he hit out at Sen. Brewster. It had all the earmarks of the professional who had Anna Held bathe in an advertised tub of milk. It was skillful public relations but it was not germane to the subject. It was a total and complete shifting from what is the public interest and concern to a high-lighted private feud.

The issue is simple: Some war contracts were not sound. Which were they? Why were they let? Who insisted upon them? Were they in the public interest, perhaps as an experimental project? If such contracts were not in the public interest, was there corruption and fraud—and by whom? That is the issue.

ONLY ONE accusation has been made against Sen. Brewster which is important: namely, that he offered to squelch the investigation. That accusation has now been made under oath. It is either true or untrue and that should be discovered.

The Hughes-Kaiser set-up was first investigated by the Truman committee. It was allowed to die when Sen. Mead of New York succeeded Sen. Truman to the chairmanship of the committee in charge.

When the Republicans took over the organization of the Senate, Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine succeeded Sen. Mead.

The Hughes-Kaiser investigation, however, was not initiated by Sen. Brewster. It was initiated by Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, the most talented investigator in the Senate today. Sen. Ferguson was then appointed chairman of a subcommittee to go into this contract, which he has done.

The interest of the American people can only be served by the facts. It may be true that Howard Hughes is a charming and delightful gentleman, an ingenious inventor and a patriotic capitalist. All this has nothing to do with the matter in hand.

This is an investigation into war contracts. It is similar to the investigation of the Garssons. There will be many more. In fact, the entire conduct of the war ought to be investigated.

It has been a costly war. How much of the cost was essential to the national defense? A people who cannot get an income tax cut from their government have a right to know that their money is not being wasted.

LET US CALL Howard Hughes, Mr. X; let us call Henry Kaiser, Mr. Y. And let us from that point on proceed with the facts without the red-herring of personalities and personal abuse. Rich men and rich firms can hire public relations counsel to abuse the public confidence, and, in my opinion, Sen. Ferguson ought to make public the names of such counsel as the names of legal counsel are generally made known to the people.

There would be fewer leaks of untruths, fewer tricky shenanigans if that were made a general practice.

At any rate, the people are entitled to the facts no matter who is involved. Many things were done during the war years which were wrong. Many of the wrongs were committed with the best of intentions in the hope of shortening the war and saving lives. Many wrongs were committed by criminals abusing the public confidence.

No man should be pilloried until the facts are on the record under oath. But the facts must come out—and no one should be protected in the search for facts.

"Mr. Cole, sometimes I feel our employees are not altogether satisfied here!"

Hughes Hearing Agitates Rivals Three-Ring Circus²⁵

person, if that is what you mean," Hughes retorted, as spectators roared with laughter.

Banging a glass ash tray on the committee, Ferguson shouted: "Don't try to get smart with this committee."

As the committee recessed for lunch, Francis Flanagan, its assistant counsel, served upon Hughes a subpoena to produce the records of his financial affairs.

Flanagan said the subpoena was for the records of Hughes' personal account, including his checking account.

Ferguson told reporters that a previous subpoena for Meyer had expired last night. He said committee aides last night asked Meyer to be present today and he agreed to be on hand, but did not appear.

"We trusted him and we shouldn't have," the chairman said.

Flanagan said that committee investigators were hunting Meyer in an attempt to serve the second subpoena.

T. A. Slack, Hughes attorney, said:

"I have no idea where Meyer is."

In one of the stormiest scenes of the inquiry into Hughes' $40,000,000 wartime airplane contracts, Hughes charged that Ferguson was trying to put him and Meyer on the stand at the same time to "grab publicity."

"Now just a minute, Mr. Hughes," Ferguson shouted.

Hughes said he would not produce Meyer because Meyer twice had been brought before the committee.

Grimly, Ferguson asked Hughes to repeat that.

"I don't remember," Hughes said slowly. "Get it off the record." (Off the stenographer's recording of the proceedings.)

(Meyer has testified to spending $164,000 in promotion of Hughes' ventures, including airplane contracts. His detailed list of expenditures included many items of entertainment for Army officers, government officials and others.)

The Ferguson, Hughes exchange went on:

Ferguson: Now Mr. Hughes, what is your answer.

Hughes: I just told you that I don't remember.

Ferguson: Then I'll ask you again. Will you bring Mr. Meyer in to the 2 o'clock hearing.

Hughes: No. I don't think I will.

Ferguson: Will you try to bring him in.

Hughes: No. I don't think I will.

The big crowded committee room was silent for a full minute as Ferguson and Hughes glared at each other.

Then the chairman asked committee counsel to draw up a subpoena for Meyer immediately.

Ferguson signed the papers and announced:

"I just signed a subpoena for Meyer, forthwith."

Handing the paper to committee attorneys, Ferguson said to tell the U. S. marshal "that we mean business on this subpoena."

Earlier, the Senate investigators found an expense account item by Russell Birdwell, Meyer's predecessor as Hughes' publicist which listed entertainment for Jesse Jones—and immediately got an affidavit that Jones was not entertained.

The committee earlier had turned to the contracts after a truce agreement was reached in the controversy between Hughes and Sen. Brewster (R.) of Maine over origin, motives and past events in the inquiry.

On the disputed Jones item, Noah Dietrich, Hughes executive identified a $2,040.65 bill Birdwell had submitted.

JONES NOT PRESENT

"I questioned the item concerning Mr. Jones," the witness said, "and called him up. Mr. Jones said he was not present at any entertainment given by Mr. Birdwell."

"Then," said Ferguson, "in your opinion Birdwell had padded his expense account?"

"Definitely," Dietrich replied.

He said the expense item already had been paid at the time it came to his attention. He added that the company had many dealings with Birdwell and may have gotten money back on other transactions.

He testified that Birdwell had made the affidavit that the account was incorrect in listing the name of Jones because he had put down the name of everyone he contacted in Washington and had entertained only a few of them.

MET WITH KAISER

Hughes arrived early for his third day before the committee, removed his coat and spent nearly a quarter of an hour thumbing through a thick stack of envelopes and papers.

But Hughes replaced his coat when Ferguson directed him to take the stand and announced there would be questions first "about the flying boat."

"When you first get the idea of building this flying boat?"

Ferguson asked.

Hughes said that in his meeting in San Francisco "with Kaiser."

Henry L. Kaiser, wartime builder of ships and many other items, previously told the investigating group that he advanced the original idea of building a vast fleet of flying boats in 1942 to beat the then serious menace of German submarines.

The flying boat contract was originally a joint Hughes-Kaiser venture, but Kaiser later withdrew. The big ship has never yet taken the air, but is reported to be about ready for tests.

Ferguson asked Hughes to relate his conversation with Kaiser when the matter of building a flying boat first came up.

Hughes said he did not remember it very well.

"The substance of it was that Kaiser asked if I would be interested in building and designing this airplane," Hughes said.

"Did he (Kaiser) have any blueprints?" Ferguson asked.

"He may have had," Hughes replied, "but I don't recall."

Ferguson wanted to know whether Kaiser had been in Washington trying to get contract to build a cargo plane. Hughes said he did not remember and he could not recall whether Kaiser had said definitely whether he could get a contract.

(Glenn L. Martin, Baltimore plane builder, told the committee last week that Kaiser once proposed to him a combine of airplane companies to build flying boats. He quoted Kaiser as saying he (Kaiser) could get the contract, although others could not.)

Ferguson then took up an expense item of $1,300 for "entertainment" by Birdwell on a trip to Washington. Hughes disclaimed knowledge about this payment.

When it developed that Birdwell had listed Jesse Jones as among those that he had entertained, aides of Hughes immediately produced an affidavit signed by Birdwell 10 days ago saying he had not entertained Jones.

MEYER'S ABSENCE

Ferguson asked Hughes if he had "anything to do with taking this affidavit from Birdwell?"

"I heard something about it," Hughes replied.

"From who?"

"I think I heard it from Lloyd Wright, one of the attorneys, my company in California."

Ferguson swung then to the absence of John Meyer, from the hearing. He said Meyer had been instructed to be present.

Sen. Pepper (D.) of Florida, broke in to suggest that the subcommittee chairman should not push Hughes to produce Meyer.

Pepper said that possibly Hughes is not responsible for the disappearance of Meyer and could not produce him.

GRABBY LAUGHTER

He asked Ferguson to be "judicial" and recognize that Meyer may be missing on his own account.

PLEA FOR FR AID

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)

—The Senate investigating subcommittee produced a letter from White House files today in an attempt to show that Howard Hughes sought presidential aid in 1942 to sell the government a plastic, medium bomber he was then developing.

Chairman Ferguson said the committee has letters Russell Birdwell, a publicity man, wrote to the White House in Hughes' behalf. He said the letters were addressed to Marvin McIntyre and Stephen Early, then secretaries to President Roosevelt.

Hughes, however, said he had not sent Birdwell to Washington for the purpose.

Ferguson: Did you send him (Birdwell) to Washington for publicity and propaganda purposes in regard to the plane?

Hughes: I don't recall.

Ferguson: Did you know that Birdwell went to the White House, or tried to go to the White House, in relation to publicity on the D-2?

Hughes: I've heard something about it at this hearing.

Swift on the heels of the disclosure Meyer is missing, Ferguson angrily asserted that Noah Dietrich, vice-president of the Hughes Co., had refused to obey a subpoena to produce all the records of the Hughes company.

"It would take a truck to bring them in here," retorted Dietrich.

"Do you want a truck driven in here?"

A gust of laughter swept through the chamber.

His face flushed and his voice sharp, Ferguson again and again repeated his order for Dietrich to produce the records.

ASKS FOR LIST

The Hughes official said that he had not refused to obey the subpoena and asked for an opportunity to consult an attorney to determine what his rights are.

"They are not my papers," he said, "they belong to Mr. Hughes. Why don't you ask Mr. Hughes?"

Hughes refused to produce all his papers.

He said if the committee would give him a list of what it wants, he would consult his attorney "and submit anything he thinks is pertinent to its case."

He said Ferguson said, "there is nothing this committee can do. We will prepare a subpoena. We are not going to argue with you."

Hughes protested that auditors for the general accounting office had been over all of the papers in question, adding that he understood it was the auditors' failure to photograph some of the papers that brought the committee's new demand to see all of them.

"Mr. chairman," Hughes said, "please do not make it appear that I am trying to conceal anything. But I am not going to have my papers spread all over the place here and have some of them lost."

Ferguson—We want all of the papers.

On the Jones item, Dietrich said, "Mr. Birdwell's expense account showed an entertainment of Jesse Jones that was inaccurate."

Dietrich, explaining that "I am a close personal friend of Mr. Jones," said he telephoned Jones in 1942 when Jones' name first appeared on the Birdwell account.

"SWINDLE SHEET"

Ferguson asked if Dietrich talked with William Costello, aide to Jones.

"Yes," Dietrich replied. "Costello said that Birdwell saw Jones for about five minutes and then sent Mr. Jones' secretary flowers. Later Birdwell saw Costello for a few minutes."

Dietrich said that he first learned about the entertainment item for Jones when the auditor for the Hughes company, "who knew that I was a personal friend of Mr. Jones came to me and asked whether Birdwell really entertained him." He said he replied: "I doubt it."

Ferguson commented that the expense "account was really a swindle sheet," and asked whether Dietrich had checked other accounts purported to be for entertainment of high officials.

Dietrich responded that such a task was not his job and snapped:

"I've got a helluva lot of things to do that are more important."

Dietrich said he also had made efforts along with Birdwell to interest Army air force procurement officials in the Hughes wooden planes.

DIDN'T LIKE HUGHES

"I saw Gen. Echols and he said he would not deal with Mr. Hughes under any circumstances," Dietrich said.

Oliver P. Echols, retired air force major general who directed the material command during part of the war, already has been a witness. He testified that he opposed the award of the Hughes contract for photo-reconnaissance planes. This contract was awarded on recommendation of Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late President and then an Air Force colonel.

Ferguson wanted to know why Gen. Echols refused to deal with Hughes.

Dietrich quoted Echols as saying:

"As far as I am concerned, I will not do business with Howard Hughes because I dislike him."

CHALLENGED BY HUGHES

Dietrich said Hughes had spent "something like six million dollars" of his own money in designing and building the photo-reconnaissance plane.

Another sharp rift between Hughes and Ferguson was touched off as the committee began to spread on the records details of the contract awarded the Hughes-Kaiser corporation for construction of three big flying boats. (Later the contract was changed to one boat.)

Ferguson, after saying that the contracts called for no profits, no losses, and no liability for a breach of its provisions, said that Hughes himself at a private, preliminary hearing had called it "a country club contract."

Hughes hotly challenged this.

"You have repeatedly changed my testimony," he charged.

He said the committee members thumbed through a transcript of the previous testimony to check the record.

They found that Hughes, being pressed at that time for a definition of the nonprofit corporation, had said that it is organized similar to a corporation "used by a charitable organization or a country club."

Hughes protested that Ferguson had used this definition in an attempt to "mislead."

"VAGUE AGREEMENT"

"You used the words 'country club,'" said Ferguson.

"But in a different way," Hughes protested.

Sen. O'Connor (D.) of Maryland, asked Hughes about his original agreement with Kaiser on the flying boat contract and how much Kaiser agreed to contribute.

"It was a rather vague agreement and verbal," Hughes replied, adding that under it he (Hughes) was to be fully responsible for design and production of the first three models and "in complete control."

Later if there was large scale production, Hughes said, Kaiser was to join in that effort.

Hughes, under a long series of questionings by Ferguson, finally said that if there is "any fault for the delay or lapse in the flying boat contract," "I want to absolve Mr. Kaiser."

"It is my fault and not Mr. Kaiser's," Hughes added, if the big flying boat fails to fly or is of poor design.

SUBLET CONTRACT

Ferguson asked Hughes if he recalled Merrill C. Meigs, wartime official in aircraft production who has testified that he opposed the flying boat contract.

"I'm not sure I would recognize Meigs if he walked into this room," Hughes replied.

Ferguson asked Hughes if he had told Meigs that he feared Kaiser "might run out on the flying boat contract."

Hughes said he had read newspaper accounts of Meigs' testimony to that effect but "I have no recollection."

In reply to a question by Sen. Williams (R.) of Delaware Hughes said a contract for construction of the cargo plane was sublet by the non-profit Hughes-Kaiser Corp. to the Hughes Tool Co.

He took exception to Williams' statement that there was nothing in the Hughes-Kaiser setup which permitted the loss of any money.

SPENT SEVEN MILLION

Hughes said that because of the subcontract "my company (Hughes Tool) had plenty of chance to lose money, and did."

Williams questioned Dietrich about the Hughes companies' financial setup.

He asked about a rental agreement, under which Dietrich said the Hughes organization could retain control of the eight-motored flying boat for about two years after it first takes to the air.

"I'm just wondering if the plane is going to be worn out before the government gets it," Williams said.

Dietrich said that many smaller plywood planes built five years ago "are still flying every day."

He testified that the Hughes companies have spent $7,000,000 on the flying boat thus far, over and above the money the government put into the project.

2d Diphtheria Case In Saugus Family

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Little, Heath, Glendale, charged with violation of Saugus health laws by exposing the public to a contagious disease, were informed today their daughter, Linda, 4, as well as their son, Ledger, 8, has diphtheria.

Health Agent John V. Spencer earlier swore out a complaint against the Littles for taking Ledger out of their home on a week-end trip to Maine against the advice of their family physician. He later had told them he suspected the boy had diphtheria, and a positive culture from the boy's throat was returned to the physician a few hours after the family left.

Officials said arraignment of the Littles, scheduled for Wednesday, would probably be postponed until it was known whether the parents are carrying germs of the disease.

Vet Bureau Fires 395 N. E. Employees

Appropriation slashes will force an immediate reduction of 395 clerical and administrative personnel in New England Veterans' Administration offices—part of a national layoff of 8600 persons—the Boston office of the VA announced today.

Most of the reductions will be in the vocational rehabilitation and education program.

Another larger slash will be in contract offices. The VA estimated that 400 to 500 officers will be closed.

The reduction of personnel is expected to result in delay in computing dividends and refunds to National Service Life Insurance policy holders.

60 Million Civilian Jobs Set All-Time Record

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Civilian employment mounted to a new all-time record of 60,079,000 in July, the Census Bureau reported today.

Jobless climbed also, reaching 2,584,000 as students sought summer work and graduates hunted their first jobs. This was 29,000 above June.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8.—Greer Garson walked into Louis B. Mayer's office yesterday to sign her new contract, but when she went to put her signature on the dotted line, there was no contract. All three copies had been sent to Greer and she had left them at home. But she didn't take long to locate the missing papers.

Greer Garson

It's interesting that Greer has, after some weeks' indecision, decided to remain on a new deal with L. B. and his company. I felt sure that Garson, who has been the queen of the lot, would stay with the studio that has given her "Mrs. Miniver," "Random Harvest," "Madame Curie" and other best selling movies.

She was a little upset over "Desire Me" and "Adventure," but I am told that Mervyn Le Roy pulled "Desire Me" out of the fire, and his remake will surprise everybody.

Garson's back on the lot—and Walter Pidgeon's got her. He's her co-star in "Speak to Me of Love," and that's a combination that will surely please the paying customers.

I WAS SURPRISED to hear from Boston that Betty Davis' home, "Butternut," at Sugar Hill, is on the market. Betty has always been so crazy about Butternut, and it was there she originally wanted to raise her baby born. But after a little of the winter weather she came back to California where her daughter first saw the light of day.

For Betty's return picture, "Winter Meeting," she gets Bretagne Windust, who currently produced "Finian's Rainbow" and before that brought to the stage "Life With Father," "Arsenic and Old Lace" and a really imposing list of stage hits. He was brought here by Warners to direct "The Patriots," but his first will be "Winter Meeting."

THE LATEST British actress to listen to England's plan to remain in England is Ann Todd. She was to have returned to Hollywood this fall, but now has arranged to stay in her own country and make H. G. Wells' "Passionate Friend" for J. Arthur Rank. The picture, to be known as a Ronald Neame production, gets going in January, and will certainly take until spring to finish.

Perhaps Miss Todd will come later, but with her children in England she has practically made up her mind her own country is the best place for her and her husband. At least this is the last word from there.

THE ARROWHEAD LAKE vacation of Loretta Young and Tom Lewis almost ended in tragedy and Loretta is still ill from the shock.

Their two-year-old son, Peter (and the cutest thing you ever saw), wanted to go out on a raft with the older children. Suddenly he fell off, and it was the luckiest thing in the world that his father happened to be watching from the beach, for none of the children could swim.

Tom was at the side of his baby son in nothing flat—but it was a narrow escape, for the child had to be given artificial respiration on the beach. The doctors say a few days in bed and he will be all right.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: The boys are at it again—I mean turning a night spot into a squared-ring while they trade punches. The latest battle took place in a valley night club as follows:

Wayne Morris came in and sat down at the piano. Not long after, Billy De Wolf entered with another party and started ribbing Wayne, making a few cracks about "actors who always have to be in the spotlight."

Morris took it for a little while and then came out swinging. Billy ducked and then swung a couple himself. Friends and bystanders, as per custom, separated the warriors.

End of round one—And end of this latest battle of Hollywood's unlicensed boxers.

BURT LANCASTER really has something to say on my radio show Sunday. Burt, who has played the toughest roles of any actor on the screen, made a big name for himself, and is probably the most sensational star of 1946-47. He's going to talk about a surprising subject, but listen and you'll see.

I've had hundreds of letters since I announced Burt was going to be on my show. That boy certainly, in two pictures, has made himself popular. If Mark Hellinger could discover a few more like him he could retire for life and be a rich man. But we don't want Mark to retire. Burt won his success being tough, like James Mason, slipping tongue. The gals seem to like 'em when they aren't too polite.

Most of us can use a few laughs these days, and I don't know when I've had such a real laugh as when I saw "Her Husband's Affair" with Lucille Ball and Franchot Tone, a Columbia-made comedy.

This one is different, and the dialogue and script, an original written by Ben Hecht and Charlie Lederer, has lines that are positively hilarious. You forget the heat and all the other unhappy things that upset your eye. The audiences at the preview, simply shouted—it's that funny.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Cornel Wilde and his blonde wife, Patricia Knight, had dinner together at the Chateaufort last night. They say it isn't a reconciliation, but if it isn't, I'd like to know what it is. Both say they will not go out with anyone else but will wait a little while before making definite plans to return to each other.

Ali Apar has left for his native Turkey, called there by the serious illness of his father, Virginia Bruce, his bride, joins him as she finishes "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes" at Paramount. Virginia and Ali Virginia Bruce had a farewell dinner at the Seacombers. She was the only gal in a party of six men. A very pleasant evening, I would say.

Before Tyrone Power takes off on his European jaunt he and Lana Turner will be guests of friends on a yacht which will head for Mexican waters.

Vincente Menelli and his little daughter, Liza, walked on the beach at Malibu practically every day. Judy Garland, meanwhile, is improving and will soon be back with them.

Mickey Rooney and his wife, looking very smart in a gorgeous white gown, walked into Cro's. But it wasn't on Mrs. R. that all eyes were turned—it was on a new mustache Mickey is sporting. Can you bear it?

Paulette Goddard returns Sept. 15 after several months in Europe.

Bill Holden and Brenda Marshall celebrated their sixth wedding anniversary, but she didn't get diamond earrings or a fur coat. She got what she asked for—an electric dish washer and one of those new automatic garbage disposers.

Rosalind Russell has every right to be proud of the wire she received from Eugene O'Neill after he saw "Mourning Becomes Electra." It reads: "Miss Russell, yours is the greatest sustained performance I have ever witnessed." Roz and O'Neill have never met.

Happy pair of dancers at the Chateaufort were Cesar Romero and Georgia Gibbs.

Maxine Jennings Saltonstall, who was divorced two weeks ago in Reno from Philip Saltonstall, nephew of the former governor of Massachusetts, will marry Director B. Ross LeJornman. Her ex-husband married three days ago. They didn't lose any time.

J. JEAN SABLON will open the Copley Plaza's fall season Sept. 17 . . . Sablons' temperament was very prominent when he played an earlier Boston engagement at the Ritz-Carlton Roof . . . Perry Como's week at the Keith-

Boston boasts the young singer's gross receipts to more than $50,000 for the past two weeks. Perry's week in Cleveland earned him $27,000. In the sometimes lamented Fabulous Twenties, ranking stars of the stage or vaudeville had reached the very top of the profession when they made $3000 a week. The stars of yesterday would settle for $50,000 a season with great haste and gratitude.

SPEAKING OF PERRY COMO, by the way, is a pleasure . . . The young singer made fans of everyone he met . . . This column would like to wager that the Como career will be marked by a display of good taste and sound thinking . . . Young Como is truly modest . . . He was the "Como" of the most popular star to make recordings last year . . . But the Como of today was not even a "name" when he cut one record which is currently out selling 90 per cent of the others . . . The record was: "Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?" and Perry's voice is the one which solos to the accompaniment of Ted Weems' orchestra and a chorus comprising Weems' bandmen . . . This recording was a "Weems" not a "Como" . . . With the production and release of the movie, "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?" the 10-year-old Weems recording has been re-issued to cash in on the film's popularity . . . When the adolescent Perry Como sang his piece in that record he had not reached stardom, and his royalties were very small.

PERRY AND HIS managers had an answer to that . . . The answer was "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?" on sale, and it is a "Como record" . . . The royalties from this one will be tremendous.

WRITTEN IN HIS spare time when he solved two years as a Navy chaplain, a play entitled Joyful Mystery was presented last night by Rev. John Louis Bonn, S. J., director of the Boston College School of Expression . . . Fr. Bonn is the narrator of his play. Another performance will be given tonight.

IT WAS reminiscent of earlier and livelier years to meet up with Charles E. Brickley, the Harvard immortal who made his hometown of Everett known throughout the country . . . The great drop-kicker booted five field goals for Harvard while he and his teammates were holding a good Yale team scoreless . . . Those five days reminds me of Joe Howard's famous old song, slightly re-phrased: "I wonder who's buying him wine?" . . . I AM AFRAID Johnny Meyer is going to catch a bit of what-for from a certain young lady when she gets around to reading the public prints. Under examination he was asked if he knew a Janet Thomas.

"Yes," replied Johnny, offhandedly, "She's a girl out in Hollywood."

Miss Thomas happens to be Mr. Meyer's ever-loving fiancée. ICE IS THICKER (than blood): Among those who scrambled to get seats for Elliott's stirring performance was another Roosevelt—Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

The lady listened attentively to Mr. Meyer's ever-loving fiancée but maintained such command over her emotions that not a sob for Elliott's plight escaped her. The iron-willed woman's eyes were dry.

That's breeding for you, kids.

goals, all dropkicks, represented all the scoring Harvard accomplished that day . . . It looms like a record-breaking performance that will withstand all future attempts to break it.

CHARLEY WAS captain of football at Harvard, and a star in baseball as well . . . In his post-graduate battle with the virus, however, Charley took the worst of it for a time, and a fortune which amounted to a bit less than a million dollars vanished as the former Harvard star fought the Fates and some very bad breaks . . . At 53, Charles E. Brickley presents a figure which appears to be as trim as in the days of his footballing for Harvard. The Brickley pate is almost bare of hair (thus living up to its early undergraduate promise) and the beginning of a double chin is evident.

CHARLEY'S VOICE is as clear and young as it always was . . . And his spirit is superb . . . Here is a living specimen of a man who was down for the count of approximately nine and nine tenths . . . but who was never "out" . . . The Brickley comeback has been gratifying to his old friends.

AS TOP MAN OF THE Encyclopedia Britannica, he has an important and lucrative position . . . His sturdy sons, Bud and Chick, were war heroes . . . Both were reported missing in action the same day, but the reports were corrected later when they turned up alive . . . The Brickley boys and their father are real chums, and Bud, the elder, inherited much of his daddy's talent for kicking footballs over the cross-bar of a pair of goal posts.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—At least one romance has been broken by the Howard Hughes case publicity. Martha Goldthwaite, former wife of crooner Jerry Cooper, was to have been married to Paul Ellis in California, but his family objected to her after she was mentioned in the Senate investigation and the engagement is off . . . Several glamor girls in New York have been asked to move out of a conservative hotel for women because of their prominence in the same probe . . . Lou Holtz is planning a Broadway musical for the winter months . . . Dick Haymes dove-cote is expected its third visit from the stork . . . Friends say June Havoc would like to marry Dave Rose, the musical genius, but won't unless he joins her faith.

MRS. BILLY GAXTON underwent surgery at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, following which she'll recuperate at Mrs. Thomas Meighan's house . . . Broadway's broad-note is expected its third visit from the stork . . . Friends say June Havoc would like to marry Dave Rose, the musical genius, but won't unless he joins her faith.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—I was very much surprised to see Elliott Roosevelt turn up for the Senate hearing sober. From testimony, I had assumed he kept plastered from noon to night on other people's liquor and that it was probably necessary for him to breathe under water to avoid spontaneous combustion.

It may be, of course, that he does not get as much cutt' hoch tossed at him these days. They told me it is absolutely astounding how few people wish to lavish their rum on an ex-brigadier general.

There seems to be little doubt that Elliott enjoyed a very damp war. Drinking companions insist he was practically a human blotter but could carry his liquor. They say, the ardent flatterers, that half the time you couldn't tell he had been drinking except for the general nasiness of his behavior.

However, I sat within three feet of him at the hearing and didn't even see him spout blue flame. He was able to walk across the room without stumbling and his eyes were so clear and well-focused he was able to recognize Sen. Pepper on sight.

Incidentally, it has been inspiring to watch Sen. Pepper coming to the rescue of the beleaguered. Whenever the republican prodding of Sen. Ferguson, Brewster et al becomes too painful, our Democratic hero interposes his good sword Excalibur. Sen. Pepper has even succeeded in making the short-winded Johnny Meyer breathe easier—and Johnny doesn't breathe easy under the best circumstances.

I don't know what, if anything, will eventually come of this investigation but I am reasonably sure of one thing: It will show a hell of a lot of people had a hell of a good time during the war.

MISS REID, who is constitutionally unable to keep her maid-enly trap out of anything, came up with this interesting question:

"Now that there are no more war contracts to give out, what are the freeloaders doing for their whisky and caviar?"

The answer is that they are still playing the lobbyist who continue to infect the nation's capital like a plague of locusts. Incidentally, it may interest the average taxpayer to know he is paying a portion for every slug of rum a lobbyist dispenses.

Lobbyists pay the cost of every drink they buy and this is ultimately collected from someone's income tax. So every time you hear of a big "public relations" blowout here, remember you are footing part of the bill.

Don't think Howard Hughes was the only one who entertained Elliott Roosevelt. You did.

Speculation as to who is picking up the tabs for Elliott these

UN Marking Time In Greek Crisis 27

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 8 (INS)—The United Nations Security Council is marking time on the Greek crisis today while seven of its 11 members confer behind closed doors in a determined effort to draft an acceptable compromise plan.

The delegates of the United States, Russia, Britain, France, Colombia and Australia have until Monday evening to rest divergent viewpoints on the border conflict between Greece and Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria and decide whether an immediate solution is possible.

Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko has indicated he will turn down any Security Council measure indicating Greece's three northern neighbors.

The seven delegates, if unable to turn in a unanimous report, will turn the issue back to the Security Council Tuesday. An Australian and Colombian resolution calling for firm action there will be debated for a deciding vote.

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Gardening
Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School.

Q—Can a sprayer be used for spraying after using 3, 4-D weed killer in it?

A—This practice is risky unless the sprayer is thoroughly washed. The sprayer can be cleaned by the following method: Rinse out with hot water, then fill to capacity with water just under the boiling point. Add household ammonia at the rate of two teaspoons per quart of water. Stir thoroughly and allow to stand in sprayer for at least 18 hours. Spray through nozzle to clean it. Rinse after treatment, and the sprayer should be safe.

Q—Will arsenate of lead stop blight?

A—Arsenate has no fungicide control value. It is used only for chewing insects. To control blight, use bordeaux mixture with arsenate of lead or D. D. T. added to control both insects and blight.

Q—Is it too late to plant bush beans now? Our garden is in Quincy.

A—If planted at once, you should find a fair chance of getting a crop. Inland, it is a little late.

Q—But variety would you suggest for kale?

A—Would suggest dwarf curled kale for quality.

WITH ALL DUE respect to hat designer Walter Florell the pioneer women of covered wagon days never looked like this... even though this bonnet and others like it come under Florell's titled series of "pioneer women." Anyway, as he does it... this mustard head-hugging bonnet sports a double handkerchief effect in perforated jersey... outlined with Russian braid. Florell says it has that early American feeling. He calls it "Middle West."—R.M.

Sunday Supper on Porch

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPERS in the summer offer liberation for the homemaker from "slaving over a hot stove." With a few standbys—crispy crackers, cold meat cuts, cheese, pickles, a tossed green salad and a cooling drink—this informal but tasty meal can be ready in a jiffy. Try eating the round scalloped crackers or the square crispy ones with meat slices. Or perhaps make cracker sandwiches with meat or cheese spreads to go along with the salad.

It is so easy to serve the Sunday night supper informally on the porch or in the backyard.

GREEN SALAD

Any salad green may be used by itself or in combination with others. The crisp greens should be placed in a salad bowl just before serving. The dressing should be poured over the greens and the latter tossed lightly with a salad fork and spoon until every leaf is covered. The addition of fresh herbs, such as tarragon, chervil, dill, sorrel and others, when they can be obtained, gives interest to a green salad. The leaves may be used whole or cut with scissors in fine pieces, as is generally done in the case of tarragon. Dried herbs may be crushed and added to the salad dressing before it is poured over the greens.

ICED DRINK

3 cups freshly boiling water
3 tsp. tea
1-3 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup orange juice
Sugar
1 pint ginger ale
6 mint sprigs
6 slices orange

Pour boiling water over tea, cover and let steep 5 minutes. Strain and cool quickly by pouring over cracked ice or ice cubes. Stir in lemon and orange juice, and sugar, if desired. When ready to serve, add ginger ale. Serve with ice in tall glasses with a sprig of mint and a slice of orange in each glass. Makes 8 large glasses.

A summer dessert treat for grown-ups as well as the youngsters is homemade gingersnap ice cream. This can be prepared a day in advance or during the morning.

GINGERSNAP ICE CREAM

1/2 tsp. plain unflavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup sugar
Dash salt
2 tsp. vanilla
1 cup heavy cream
23 gingersnaps, crushed (makes 1 cup crumbs)

Soften gelatin in 1/2 cup of the cold milk. Scald remaining milk and sugar; add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool. Add salt and vanilla. Set refrigerator control for fast freezing. Pour mixture into refrigerator tray and freeze until firm throughout. Whip cream only until it will just hold its shape, never until stiff. Remove frozen mixture from tray to a chilled bowl and break it up with a wooden spoon. Beat until free from hard lumps but still crumbly (do not beat so long that liquid forms). Fold in whipped cream and crushed gingersnaps. Pour into tray; moisten bottom of tray to insure good contact and hasten freezing. Return at once to refrigerator and freeze until firm. Makes about one quart.

New Type of Foam Bath

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

PHYSICIANS SAVE KNOWN for many years of the close connection between the physical and the mental. Today the interest in this subject has mounted tremendously... not only as the subject of celluloid involvements and fictionalized portrayals... but as the big theme of discussion among doctors everywhere as they strive to find practical therapy to relieve the tension of the times. A relaxed body usually induces a relaxed mind... and produces calmness and sureness... a personal confidence in things done and to be done. Always in a postwar period of reconstruction, there is uncertainty of ourselves and the future. And while medicos advise that we take everything in poised stride... that, sometimes, is more easily said than done.

It is because the science of psychosomatics throws new light on the significance of bathing... that we have devoted today's column to a new type of foam bath... one which effects a delightfully agreeable sensation to both mind and body. Mildly stimulating... this new type of bubble bath produces extra billows of white foam to give you that riding-the-clouds feeling.

MUSCLES RELAX

And once you're immersed in these airy peaks of snow... surrounded by the flowery aura of its particularly appealing fragrance... stifling heat, irritations, minor beefs... even mental worries... seem like mere illusions. You smile dreamily... every muscle relaxes... and tension, both mental and physical, seems to vanish like magic.

If you would have me draw on my personal experience with this new type foam bath... you feel like a water-lily floating serenely, lazily. Sister, you're at peace with the world! These aren't just a writer's imaginative words flowing from a facile artistry... but an actuality you'll excursion with when you make the most of that significant tubbing. Mentally refreshed... physically revived... you'll feel like a new creature... as jaunty as a youngster, as bright as a shiny dollar cartwheel.

We've repeatedly said that the ritual of the bath should involve more than the ritual of cleansing. It should be a to-do activity... in which that luxurious feeling of abated nervousness resolves into a diminution of tension... and from which you emerge not only clean but element.

It is the psychic effect of such a foam bath that prompts our featuring it today. Not only will it thwart the fatiguing ravages of the heat... but the fatigue of the full and busy schedule which crowds most our lives.

For the name of this new type foam bath, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, any day except week-ends, or write to me, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WE DON'T know what Adele Jergens looked like back in her Brooklyn days... when she wanted to be a newspaperwoman... but this is a reasonably accurate facsimile of the Columbia filmstress at present. In her fetching lounging apparel... obviously she's just bathed and emerged from the relaxing treatment, fit and ready AND beautiful for her film work.

She'd Better Forget Him

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX—Through a friend, I began a correspondence with a serviceman who wrote to me first. Soon we exchanged pictures of ourselves, and some months later he came to see me on a week-end pass and we had a very happy time.

After he went back to camp, I received a letter from him asking me to go steady, and I said yes. About a month later, his letters stopped, and, when none came for several weeks, I was really worried and called him up long-distance.

He told me he had been sick for a month and quarantined, but would be able to come and see me in a few weeks. He told me he would write me a letter that evening, but two weeks have gone by and I have heard nothing. I am wondering if I should write to him or forget him entirely. I am terribly fond of him and it might be love; I don't know. "PUZZLED"

I think you had better make no moves of any sort toward this young man unless he shows more signs than he does at present of a real interest in you.

I doubt very much if you are going to find him a very satisfactory friend. If you had been very seriously in his thoughts, he would have found some way of getting word to you that he was ill and could not write you. I wouldn't worry about being in love with this young man. I doubt if you are.

Black Tops for Magic Evenings

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

BLACK IS the magic ingredient in the season's most fanciful evening gowns. Black, in a symphony of tones and weights, lends its bewitchment to dresses for magic evenings.

Shading from a shadow to its deepest intensity, black makes a dress of many moods. It is ethereal in marquisette, sparkling in sequins, intense in heavy crepe. Bruno uses black in all these expressions for an evening gown that gives glamor to the woman who wears it.

The body of the gown is a figure-molding sheath of rich, black crepe, so form-fitting that it must be slit almost to the knee. The top of the dress is bare, but the naked shoulders are veiled in sheer black marquisette cut wide and full like an all-enveloping cape. Sparkling on the marquisette is a jeweled pattern of pet sequin embroidery.

Schoolmates at Rites For Slain Fall River Girl

FALL RIVER, Aug. 8—With schoolmates of the victim attending, funeral services were held today for Theresa LaFleur, 8, slain allegedly by her uncle, Charles A. McGarty, 25, Concord parolee. Solemn high requiem mass was celebrated in Immaculate Conception Church. Burial was in St. Patrick's Cemetery. McGarty, who police say has confessed killing the girl because of a grudge he had against her father, is being held without bail for hearing Aug. 13.

Prayer in Hebrew Leads to Conviction

For the next two years, at the House of Correction, Herbert H. A. Butler, 35, of 35 Shirley ave., Winthrop, will have a chance to improve his linguistic ability — which proved a glaring weakness before Judge Edward J. Voke in Suffolk Superior court.

Police testified $150. and a prayer printed in Hebrew were stolen from the home of Harry Rosenberg, a neighbor in Shirley ave., and were later found in Butler's possession. The defendant could not read the prayer, much less explain its presence in his pocket.

Burt Lancaster Repeats In Boston's 'Brute Force'

By PEGGY DOYLE

They were lined up on Essex st. yesterday, taking in good humor a 35-minute wait for the next showing of the RKO Boston's new prison melodrama, "Brute Force," the indication being that the Mark Hellinger production may parallel if it does not top his earlier "Killers" at the Loew office.

Again Burt Lancaster, of the cubist bone structure and the intense gaze, is starred. The ex-acrobat, who continues to practice the tricks of his former trade to keep in trim, has built up considerable manique lure by reason of one picture.

He is on the "inside of the big house" in "Brute Force," ring-leader of a group of prisoners who are certain they can effect a successful jail break. The fact that these "cons" are either good-looking, interesting, likeable or more sinned against than sinning, that the warden is totally lacking in intestinal fortitude and that the prison captain, his aide, is a sadist with a Hitlerian power complex is a frankly radical reversal of the copybook credo.

At one point during the unreeling the predominantly youthful audience widely applaud the ringing "heroes" in prison garb as they advance on and kill the brutal, hated jailer. It causes one to wonder how suggestive are these youngsters when crime is packaged in, say, Burt Lancaster's heroic dimensions.

Another new pitch in "big house" story technique is the shrewd introduction into the script of the women on the "outside" who, innocently or with evil intent, are responsible for their men being "in st."

They are Yvonne DeCarlo, Ella Raines, Anita Colby and Ann Blyth. Howard Duff, soldier (radio's Sam Spade) tangled with the M.P.'s because of love for his Italian bride (Miss DeCarlo) and her fascist father's duplicity. Whit Bissell's bookkeeper, embezzled $3000 to give his discontented wife (Miss Raines) a mink coat. John Hoyt's Wall st. smoothie was hijacked by lovely Flossie (Miss Colby). In love with Miss Blyth's sweet-faced invalid, Lancaster risks everything to get money for her operation and to persuade her to have it performed. Other light touches are introduced by the Trinidad lyricist, Sir Launcelot, whose Calypso, a trusty, provides some melodious interludes. In philosophically dour contrast is Art Smith's prison doctor-alcoholic, a brilliant, thought-provoking characterization.

Charles Bickford's prison paper editor, whose good judgment and understanding have improved relations between the administration and the prisoners, and Sam Levene, as his not too literate assistant, have been forced into the jailbreak when their paroles are indefinitely deferred.

These two, Hume Cronyn, as the bullying, arrogant prison captain who succeeds the deposed warden, Lancaster and the others handle scripter Richard Brooks' trenchant, biting dialogue with masterful skill. Roman Bohnen's ruling warden is neither a credit to him nor to the fine penologists exemplified by the late Warden Lewis E. Lawes.

Definitely "Brute Force" is box-office, but is it "freed for the young" and the daughters of the men who made it? I wonder

'Cry Wolf' Only Too Aptly Titled

"Cry Wolf," which brings the co-starring Barbara Stanwyck and Errol Flynn to the Met screen this week, is only too aptly titled.

For all of its calculated build-up to an ominous, baffling climax, Warners' little bijou of a child killer leaves the customers in a so-much, so-why and who cares mood.

Miss Stanwyck, her usual alluring and beautifully garbed self, is presumably the widow arriving at the brooding, ominous-seeming family home for the funeral of her recently deceased husband. The atmospheric chill in the house seems to emanate from an aloof, young scientist.

Naturally, Miss Stanwyck is baffled, bewildered and becalmed. Correspondingly chill and uncommunicative are the servants, a forbidding silence made up for at night by terrifying screams.

Errol Flynn, or didn't you know, is the deceased uncle, and his attitude towards the latter's sister is as noticeably chill towards the rest of the household.

But all this is so many "effects." Actually no tension is generated, and the finale show this mystery up as a fooler, just a "wolf," sort of thing.

Glamor Overflows at Loew's

Glamor rears its lovely head again and makes of Enterprise's opulent production of Erich Maria Remarque's unpublished story, "The Other Love," a thing of fantasy bordering on the ridiculous.

In this United Artists' release, now showing on Loew's twin screens, Barbara Stanwyck is cast as a brilliant concert pianist who collapses after a strenuous tour and is sent to a Swiss Alpine sanitarium.

For this health retreat, Edith Head, Hollywood designer, created a wardrobe of 37 changes of costume for Miss Stanwyck. This picture loses out the window any silly notion that a couple of changes of hospital "johnnies" make up the wardrobe of a lung patient.

As for being bedded, Miss S. got a few hours' sleep at night but for the major part of the unreeling she is one of the most dashing of pleasure-seekers in all this lavish countryside, including a portion of the Swiss Alps and contemporary Monte Carlo, with its famed gambling casino.

More than that, David Niven is thrown in as her doctor and that fascinatingly menacing Richard Conte as her "other love."

I don't know how Remarque's original story read, but in its present reincarnation it is so all bound up in grandeur and phony emotions that I gave up, put the Venetian blinds on my ears and gave myself up to an armchair Alpine junket.

Yankee Oddity: Man Who Hits 'Em Off His Ear

By AUSTEN LAKE

Austen Lake

THE NEW YORK YANKEES, in town today, not only possess a 13-game lead over the rest of the American League herd but they own the baseball's only candidate for Ripley's Odditorium—Larry "Yogi" Berra, catcher and sometimes outfielder, who is viewed with the same curiosity by baseball fans as circusgoers regard the upside down man, the two-headed cow and platter-pussed people.

What Beer Barrel Tony Galento was to boxing a few years ago, Yogi Berra is to baseball, a squat 5:8 body, built like a human fire plug and a pair of feet that seem to march at independent angles. Last spring at Sarasota when the Yanks came for their first exhibition game Mike Ryba took one gander at Yogi and nominated him All-time, All-America captain of his "Ugly club."—an accolade which Yogi accepted with a wide, rubbery grin and the retort, "Yu'aint so putty yuhself," which Mike conceded had a modicum of truth.

Future Babe Ruth?

YOGI DOESN'T CONFORM to any of the usual standards of athletics, unless it is the wrestling profession. His arms are short, his fingers stubby, his legs shaped like Easter hams, his neck negative. He fights and squirms at the plate like he had a bee in his blouse and when he runs after a ball he looks as though he's come loose at the hinges. When he speaks it comes out in a kind of verbal chop suey. And he's probably the best bad ball hitter since Babe Herman of Brooklyn's old Daffiness Dodgers.

But the one thing that Yogi can do, and do surpassingly well, is play baseball, and especially drive the ball to the far corners of the park.

Last spring, Larry MacPhail, the loquacious, quarrelsome president of the Yanks was sitting with the ball writers, who were making comic comment on the jungle-like crudities of Yogi's looks and action. "Just the same gentlemen" said Larry with mock courtesy, "You are looking at the future Babe Ruth. Two years hence Berra will be the talk of the game."

He's the talk of the game now! For Yogi, a name pinned on him during his kid-hood in St. Louis Italian section where he grew up with the Cardinal's Joe Garagiola, looked so much like a certain movie "horror" character named Yogi that it won him the appellation, hits any pitch his short arms and long bat can reach. Having resisted all efforts to make him a "smart hitter," his credo is "Watsa diff s'long's I hit'm"—a doctrine which admittedly has merit.

Recently Cleveland's Mel Harder was complaining to Lou Boudreau on the Fenway bench, "How can you pitch to that guy (Berra)? I have him two strikes and 'no' the other day, and throw him a duster. He hits it off his ear for two bases." Boudreau mused, "Maybe his weakness is over the heart of the plate."

It's funny how they got Yogi! Johnny Shulte, the Yankee spy, picked him off the St. Louis sand lots for $500 signing bonus and staked him out in Norfolk, which is a member of some little leaky-roof league where he began hitting the ball so hard that the cost of lost baseballs driven out of bounds was like to bust the management. So a New York Giant scout happened along and persuaded Mel Ott to offer the Yankee $50,000 for this human curiosity, which Mel did!

"It Was Pretty Gruesome"

FIFTY G's IS AN IMPOSING bundle of lettuce and it aroused McPhail's curiosity. So Larry inquired who is this apple knocker worth fifty grand and went down to have a personal peek. That was the day when Yogi belted in some fourteen runs on half a dozen hits. And the next day he knocked in a dozen more, which was convincing enough!

Only the Yankees weren't quite ready for him, so MacPhail checked him with the Newark club, which is a kind of check room for the Yankees. And up there he hit baseballs away just as lavishly as he had down in Norfolk. So Newark yelled for MacPhail to come and get him, which he did.

Bucky Harris, who now holds the prestige job of managing the Yankees, was bossing Buffalo in the same league with Newark last year and he said, "If it wasn't illegal I would have shot him. He gave us the galloping hogbombs every time we played Newark."

Yogi's original label said "catcher" but Bucky experimented with him as an outfielder, though expecting him to trip himself and break his legs. "It was pretty gruesome at first," said Bucky, "but somehow he managed to catch up with the ball and hang on—though I can't explain it."

Berra is a throwback to the era of main strength baseball which developed such mighty swingers as Lou Gehrig, Tony Lazzeri and Babe Ruth. But like Ringling's Gargantua the Great, Yogi hasn't attained his full maturity yet and at present is flitting around the .300 mark with ten or so home runs, which is not bad considering that he plays irregularly.

So, with the recent addition of Bobo Newsom, the Yankees hold a corner on the few circus oddities left in a game which now runs toward young, mild-mannered business athletes. Bobo is a sideshow all by himself. But unlike old Bobo, who is sensitive to kidding, Yogi loves it. And when his teammates tell him about his Frankenstein pan, he just gives them his ear-splitting grin and replies: "Yah don't hit d' ball wit yer puss!"

Red Sox Face Yanks Tonight: Series Key to Sox' Dim Hope

By FRED HOEY

Winner of his last three starts, Tex Hughson has faith in his ability to stop the New York Yankees in the arc light game at Fenway Park, scheduled for 8:30 tonight. Vic Raschi, the sensational kid from the Portland, Ore., team of the West Coast League, is expected to operate for the Yanks, although Allie Reynolds has been mentioned in the same breath.

As the season has progressed it does seem that every impending trip, or series, is about to determine the ultimate fate of the Red Sox. But the current series of three games positively may be the last definite decision on their fate.

No team in third place, 13½ games off the pace, can comfortably look ahead to World's Series plums, certainly not the way in which the Red Sox have been performing over the last two weeks. The team now has five pretty fair country pitchers in Tex Hughson, Dave Ferriss, Joe Dobson, Denny Galehouse and Earl Johnson. But the other departments have been falling down badly. The fielding has been a bit on the lifeless side, the base running nothing to write home about and the general lack of spirit and indifference has put the club squarely behind the eight ball.

Playing the Yanks in three single games will determine quite definitely where the boys are going. They trail the second place Detroit Tigers by a half game and have only a 2½ game lead over the fourth place Athletics.

Miracles have happened in baseball. Teams in the same situation as the Sox find themselves receive a shot of something or other and start moving in the right direction. Yesterday, for example, the Red Sox unleashed all their power to pulverize the Senators 12-2 with 15 hits for 25 bases to their credit.

And in salvaging this final game in Washington they had the distinction of licking a pretty nasty pitcher in Earl Wynn. The fans ask, "Why can't they do that more often?" Joe Cronin must be just as puzzled as the fans.

There's no doubt about it, the Sox pitchers are beginning to come up for air. Cronin has five available starters. The team needs steadier fielding and a bit more robust hitting. According to most fans they have shot their bolt. Surprising things do happen in baseball, but if that Yankee team continues to win what's to be done about it? They are in. The best spot the Sox can fight for is second place and they have held that spot so often in the past that it has become a chestnut.

The Sox first run of the game yesterday and first run in 12 innings was Teddy Williams' 25th homer of the campaign which he parked over the high right field wall as first batter in the second inning.

It was the Kid's initial round-tripper in this slugger's graveyard since the opening game of the 1946 season and it sparked a 15-hit Sox attack to which every member of the cast, except the battery of Galehouse and Parlee, contributed.

The Kid, himself, scored four runs and Jake Jones, five times a strike out victim in the series, knocked in four tallies.

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 8 (AP)—The college all star football squad, under the direction of head coach Frank Leahy, worked out yesterday at Dyche Stadium on pass defense and defense in general for the night battle in Chicago's Soldier Field Aug. 22 with the Chicago Bears, champions of the National Football League.

Leahy said the first squad scrimmages would be held tomorrow.

CHESTNUT HILL, Aug. 8.—Arthur Nielsen and son, Arthur, Jr., of Chicago, will defend their national Father and Son Championship in the National Doubles championships to be held at the Longwood Cricket Club August 18 through August 23, it was learned today.

Last year the Nielsens swept through to victory at Longwood to give the elder Nielsen a grand slam, for he also paired with his daughter, Peggy, at Cleveland to win the National Father and Daughter championship.

Arthur, Senior, is 49, while his son is 28.

Bill Voiselle Will Try to Shake Off Jinx as He Faces N. Y. Giants Tonight

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Bill Voiselle, original hard luck pitcher of Boston baseball will have a chance to register a bit of revenge against his former boss, Mel Ott, tonight at the Polo Grounds when he faces the New York Giants.

Big Bill has lost six games in a row but the manner in which they have been dropped should not be charged directly against Voiselle. He lost two games 2-0 and another 2-1. It seems when Big Bill steps on the hill the Braves commit both baseball sins, they kick them around in the field and then stop hitting.

The Braves have considerable ground to make up even though they flashed an excellent display by taking three of the four games from the Dodgers. They are in fourth place, eight games behind the leading Dodgers. The Tribe is three games behind the third place Giants and trail the second place Cards by four games. So their task is going to be a tough one.

One of the bright features of the Dodger series just closed was the fact that four Braves' pitchers went the distance. These days of ever-changing pitchers this is some feat. It shows Billy Southworth has this department moving in the right direction.

The Giants plan to shoot Monte Kennedy against the Braves tonight. Monte has won 9 and lost 7. Playing against the Giants in the Polo Grounds places a terrific burden on pitchers. Ordinary flies go for home runs over the short right field barrier at the Polo Grounds. Hitters like Johnny Mize and Willard Marshall are taking full advantage of this as their records attest. Johnny has hit 34 and Marshall 28, to top both league in the circuit walling department.

The Braves are all happy to see Red Barrett come through again. The voluble one did a neat job in knocking off the Dodgers yesterday. He combined all three departments to do the trick, his own brilliant pitching, his own hitting and his own fielding.

The Giants have just emerged from a three game cleanup of the Phillie series and they must be hot. But the Southworth men appear to be hot, too, at the moment. So the game today at the Polo Grounds should be a whiz, provided that black cat doesn't cross Voiselle's path before the game.

Bobby Jones' Son In National Play

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP)—If Robert T. Jones 3d survives the qualifying round of the National Amateur golf tournament, he will have a chance to beat Johnny Goodman of Omaha, something his famous father failed to do in the tournament in 1929.

The entry of young Jones, 20, was received at the U. S. Golf Ass'n offices here yesterday for the tournament, which will be held on the same course at Del Monte Sept. 8-13. Young Bobby must qualify on his home course in Atlanta Aug. 26.

Goodman, who won the title in 1937 and is exempt from qualifying, also filed his entry yesterday.

Gloucester Anglers All Agog as Striped Bass Strike

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Someone has been hooking striped bass lately, judging from word that a total of 103 bass has been registered during the first three weeks of the Derby being conducted by the energetic Cape Ann Sportsman's Club, of Gloucester! This funny fray will continue through Sept. 15, with $3000 worth of prizes awarded. The angler taking the largest fish will receive $300.

Still in the lead at the moment is William S. Burke, Gloucester, who caught a 28-pound, 13-ounce striper. Frank J. Peters, of Medford, won a five-week's vacation at the Hawthorne Inn for two, plus a china closet, for his catch of 18 pounds, 4 ounces. He was eligible for the weekly non-resident-of-Gloucester prize.

Second prize for last week went to Charles Pickard, Ipswich, who landed a 14-pound, 12-ounce fish; while the 14-pound, 8-ounce bass taken by Frank L. Kennedy of Annisquam, was good for the third award.

Harry J. Reardon, Jr., president of the Cape Ann Club, tells us that hundreds of fishing enthusiasts are competing in the tourney, and more entries are always welcome.

STRIPER SHOTS: Jack Levy, of Brighton, tied into his first bass of the season, recently, casting an eelskin from a south bank of the Cape Cod Canal, about a mile from the Bourne Bridge. The fish, which he battled for half-an-hour, turned out to be a 39½-pounder, and has been entered in the Field and Stream contest. . . . "My heart was in my mouth while that bass was fighting," he declared. "My line was 36-pound-test nylon—and I was afraid it would snap at any moment! Soon after I had landed that bass, I caught another that weighed 13 pounds." This seems to hold true; catch one striper and you'll hook another in the same spot—sometimes.

Speaking of large striped bass, such specimens have erroneously been termed "bulls" for years, although Yale University's Dr. Merriam, a noted authority, claims they're females. . . . What shall we call 'em—"belles"? . . . Any and all suggestions will be appreciated.

Skipper Joe Eldridge, who pilots the charter boat, "The Striper," in the Buzzards Bay area, decided to give "greener waters" a whirl this week, so he headed for the Orleans region, where he did very well, hooking three bass, the biggest a 40-pounder. . . . Plenty of this species are being beached at Martha's Vineyard, which is probably the best bet at this writing, in addition to the Orleans section. To H. J. W.: The Canal Striper Derby commences Aug. 15, running to Oct. 1. You can file your entry at the Red Top Bait Shop, Buzzards Bay.

Al Weill Discovers Another Latin 'Champ'

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP)—The deep and dulcet tones of Fight Manager Al Weill's vocal equipment were working overtime last night—he's got a new heavyweight "white hope" from South America.

The latest shipment of Argentine beef, not subject to governmental quarantine, is named Angel Sotillo, and he hails from Santa Cruz, Argentina.

The six-foot-two, 200-pound, 27-year-old stepped from a plane at Newark Airport, and Weill immediately began knocking on the doors of Madison Square Garden officials to line up a fight for him.

Amateur Golf Entry Deadline on Aug. 12

The deadline for filing entries for the sectional qualifying round for the National Amateur Golf championship is drawing near. All entries must be filed before 5 P. M. on August 12th at the offices of the USGA.

Hearst Junior Golf Star Cards Fine 67

By BILL GRIME

Robert "Bucky" Marchese of Williams College, who was a semifinalist in the Hearst New England junior golf classic, fired one of the outstanding rounds of the season at the Country Club of Springfield par 3 at the 10th, Marchese came out of a trap and got his par at the 11th and then holed a 12-footer in a par on the 12th, after putting his second over the green.

He then putted the 13th for a bogey and got down with one put for par on the ensuing hole. Then young Marchese really tore the course apart. He dropped a four-footer for a birdie at the 15th, missed an eagle 3 at the long 16th by two inches, ran down a 35-footer for a bird at the 17th and pushed in an eight-foot putt for a ace on the home green.

Marchese's card:
Out 345 4 4 6 3 4 3—36
In 344 4 4 3 4 3 2—31-67
